"FRESNO DAN" IS RECOGNIZED BY RUSSELLS

That "Fresno Dan," claimant No. 2 to the Russell fortune, is now received by the Russell family as the genuine Daniel Blake Russell, was indicated to-day by his lawyers at the fifth conference between the second claimant and William C. Russell, who he claims as a brother.

SENATOR CARTWRIGHT MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT.

"We conferred to-day with our friends," said Senator George W. Cartwright, one of the counsel for "Fresno Dan," after the conference.

"Of course you know that the whole Russell family have received our client as Daniel Blake Russell," said H. R. Stanley, another of counsel for the California claimant.

These two statements are taken as positive indications that William C. Russell and others of the Russell family have accepted "Fresno Dan" as the genuine Daniel Blake Russell.

Mr. Odlin Is Silent.

Claimant No. 2 and his lawyers conferred with William C. Russell and his lawyers in the office of Nason & Proctor, No. 15 Beacon street, to-day. After the conference Attorney William Odlin said:

"It is the same old story—nothing doing. I can't say what the result was or whether the conference will be continued this afternoon."

Mr. Stanley said: "We will file no claim until after the arguments have been completed in the present hearing. We may even wait until Judge Lawton renders his decision. Then there are two steps that we can take. The first is to file our client's claim with the court and the second is to move for a hearing on his identity. There is a possibility that we may ask for a hearing before Judge Lawton, but may carry our case direct to the Supreme Court."

Mr. Proctor Was Absent.

Mr. Proctor was the only one of the principals connected with William C. Russell's case who was not present at the conference. He was busy out of town on another case. During the week "Fresno Dan" and his lawyer have taken several auto trips to Melrose. All trace of them is missing after their arrival in Melrose, but it is believed that they have been visiting the various friends of Daniel Blake Russell's boyhood.

Daniel Blake Russell No. 2 walked rapidly from the Quincy House to the Beacon street law offices of his lawyers, Nason & Nason & Russell. He is wearing a new suit of clothing and a new hat, and appears much livelier and animated in a manner than when he first came to Boston. He was accompanied to the law offices by Senator George Cartwright. A taxicab was being brought with him from Fresno, California, and by William Odlin, his Boston lawyer. He refuses to talk with anyone without the consent of his lawyers.

Confident of Success.

Daniel Blake Russell No. 2, with his lawyer, Senator Simpson of North Dakota, remained at the Hotel Commonwealth to-day. He seemed to feel that Judge Lawton's decision in the great case which is matched on Monday will be one deciding that his client is the son of the late Senator Russell and brother of William C. Russell, present holder of the estate.

Senator Leslie A. Simpson, attorney for Daniel Blake Russell No. 1, made grave charges in his address to the court against Ferdinand R. Amy as an administrator of the Russell estate.

Senator Simpson declared boldly that Mr. Amy was not honest, and he further asserted that William C. Russell is only a name in this litigation. This is the strong language the Senator used in referring to Mr. Amy.

"If Ferdinand R. Amy is honest in the administration of the Russell estate, and I assert that he is not honest and could not be honest and have interest in it present, many thousand dollars would be involved, and it would not have followed the claim and into every home he entered in Melrose."

Speech Four Days Long.

Simpson, who for more than six months has been battling in the Probate Court at East Cambridge to establish the claim of Daniel Blake Russell No. 1, may conclude his argument at Monday's session of court. He has been talking for more than three days and a request by Attorney Robert Nason for the respondents that he be allowed to reply to certain parts of Mr. Simpson's argument may, if granted by Judge Lawton, continue the arguments for two or three days longer. Attorney Fred C. Salmon will have the last say.

Mr. Simpson wants a chance to object to what he terms misquotations of evidence by the client's counsel. Mr. Simpson claims a similar privilege in case the court grants it to Mr. Nason. It is therefore uncertain

TAFT'S POLICY UPHELD

CHICAGO, April 9.—Attorney General Wickersham arrived here to-day from Washington. He came to speak this evening before the Hamilton Club on "The First Year of the Administration." He believes President Taft is misunderstood and that the soundness of his administrative theories are as yet unappreciated.

Mr. Wickersham denied that the administration had failed to carry out its pre-election pledges.

Mr. Taft is doing just what the Republican party in its two platforms assumed to do. His administration needs no defence. It is not on the defensive. It needs only to be understood," he declared.

Referring to the alleged trouble in the cabinet, which, it was reported in Washington, would result in the early resignations of Secretaries Ross and MacVeagh, who are reported to be jealous of Mr. Wickersham's influence with the President, the Attorney General said: "If I were such a disrupting element as I have been regarded in some quarters I ought to get out soon."

Some Wickersham Epigrams.

Mr. Wickersham used epigrams freely in outlining his address to be made this evening, in which, it is understood, he will present forcibly the ideas of President Taft. Among them were the following:

"The public is not appreciating what Taft is doing at present.

"There aren't any cardinal achievements to show for Taft's first year. You can't get many cardinal achievements in a year. It is more a question of direction, or tendency and filings striven for.

"The President's greatest achievements so far are in his economies in administration and in appointments.

"Mr. Taft's administration is logically continuing the so-called Roosevelt era.

"The greatest public question is the corporation or so-called trust question.

High Cost of Living.

"In some ways the term, 'high cost of living,' is misapplied and means the cost of higher living.

"The cost of necessaries has increased 60 per cent. in thirty years. It has increased in proportion to the increase in the production of gold.

"Until that increased likely to furnish some ammunition for the foes of the administration to tackle the silver question."

Mr. Wickersham was asked:

"Well, and as an expert, as economical subjects, however, that the increased supply of gold has tended to increase the cost of necessaries and all commodities, in fact.

"The price of 'silver' was another question.

"No, I don't believe that the price of labor has advanced in proportion to the advance of other things in order, servants meet and wheat.

"There is another explanation for the high cost of living. Elevation and intelligence have much to do with it. What would content the average family a generation ago doesn't content the average family of to-day. They demand better houses, better food and more and better amusement."

Payne Law Is Defended.

"The Payne tariff law isn't ideal by any means, but it is a distinct improvement over previous tariff legislation," continued Mr. Wickersham. "The corporation tax clause is great governmental experiment. It will reveal the real insight into the profits and methods of corporations and this information will be invaluable in framing future tariff legislation.

"The fact that a bill has seen the prosecution before the Supreme Court of the two greatest corporation aggregations in the world—the Standard Oil Company and the Tobacco Trust."

"How about Roosevelt?" Mr. Wickersham was asked.

"Well, he speaks for himself," laughed the Attorney-General.

SUGAR TRUST STRIKERS VICTORS

NEW YORK, April 9.—Eighteen hundred employes of the American Sugar Refining Company at the Williamsburg plant to-day won their strike for 7½ cents an hour increase in wages and the reinstatement of sixty-two men whose discharge caused the walkout.

TAFT WILL DEFEND THE TARIFF TO-NIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 9.—President Taft tonight will sound the keynote of the Republican fight for the control of the next House of Representatives in a speech he will deliver at the annual dinner of the League of Republican State Clubs in this city. A defence of the President by voting special attention to the recent tariff affairs with the nations of the world.

Mrs. Larz Anderson Gives Name to a New Destroyer

Snapshot at the launching of the torpedo boat destroyer Perkins at Quincy to-day, showing Mrs. Anderson breaking bottle on bow of ship.

MRS. ANDERSON CHRISTENS SHIP

Cheered by a brilliant crowd of society people and American and foreign naval officials, Mrs. Larz Anderson, daughter of the late Commodore George Hamilton Perkins, U. S. N., to-day christened the new United States torpedo boat destroyer Perkins, launched at the Fore River Ship Yards at Quincy.

The vessel is named for Mrs. Anderson's father.

The destroyer left the ways at 10:20. It was the most auspicious launching in the history of the yard.

Mrs. Anderson broke a bottle of champagne over the bow, saying: "I christen thee Perkins," as the workmen knocked away the retaining blocks and allowed the destroyer to slip down the ways to the nine water.

Spectators Break Into Cheers.

Mrs. Anderson was surrounded by a notable throng of Boston society men and women. Her voice, clear and resonant, and vibrant with the pride she felt at naming the boat in honor of her father, was the signal for cheers, that did not subside until the destroyer lay quietly in the water.

The launching was without a hitch. The destroyer slipped from the ways gracefully and easily. Once in the water the vessel was taken in tow by two tugs and brought to the dock, where it was viewed and admired by smartly-gowned women and brilliantly uniformed navy men.

Following the launching a luncheon was served in the mould loft. A special train, which brought the guests from Boston, conveyed them back to the city.

Guests at Launching.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bliss, Mr. T. D. Boardman, Herbert Browne, Esq., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bradlee, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Brandegee, Miss L. Battelle, Lieutenant and Mrs. M. Bischel, A. N. C., Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Bowles, Randolph Bainbridge, E. C. Bumpus, Mr. Laurence Curtis, D. Casanova, electrical engineer, A. N. C.; Admiral and Mrs. Colby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. A. F. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greenough, Naval Constructor G. G. Gilmore, U. S. N.; Mr. and Mrs. Harlow, Lieutenant Owen Hill, U. S. N.; Mr. C. L. Hammond, W. H. Horne, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kincaide, Harrison A. Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lowell, Hon. and Mrs. L. R. P. Langeller, W. L. Marvin, J. W. Mc-Ameny, Valerio Meschia, naval architect, A. S. Cunliffe and Mrs. Charles H. Manning, Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Perkins, Evan F. Pleland, Mrs. Casimir Cross Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sears, Miss Seabury, Hon. William P. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sturgis, Admiral and Mrs. S. W. Terry, Mrs. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Thomas, Hon. William H. Thomas, Lieutenant Commander C. M. Vonsiatt, U. S. N., General and Mrs. Stephen Wood, Mrs. Anna Weld, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Weld.

"ENCHANTRESS" HAS FIT IN HER CELL

VENICE, April 9.—The countess Tornowski, "the enchantress," accused of plotting the murder of her husband, collapsed in her cell to-day, shrieking that she was the victim of a band of persecutors. The attack ended in a fit, from which the manly recovered sufficiently to attend her trial. The defence contends that she is the victim of a malady which renders her unaccountable.

MISS SEARS GETS VAUDVILLE OFFER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Every variety of request from Miss Sears, will you marry me," to "Will you finance an expedition to the top of Mount McKinley," has been received by Miss Edmonia A. Sears, "Marathon" walker, since her recent trip from Burlingame to Del Monte. A moving picture firm also wants the Boston society girl to start another hike, allowing herself to be photographed during out the miles. She has had other vaudeville offers.

CARLON A. BROWN DEAD.

Carlon A. Brown, sixty years old, of No. 33 Barnard street, Dorchester, died to-day at his home. For twenty-five years Mr. Brown was an inspector of the Boston Board of Health. He was formerly head of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and prominent in the Royal Arcanum. He leaves one son, Albert R. Brown, clerk in the Municipal Criminal Court.

Girl Accused as Slayer of Laundryman Says Clothing and Effects Are Being Detained by Mrs. Glover.

Hattie Le Blanc, now a prisoner in the East Cambridge jail awaiting trial for the murder of Clarence F. Glover, to-day petitioned the Superior Court, asking that the court compel Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, the widow of her employer, to give up clothing, letters, papers and other documents belonging to the young domestic, which she says Mrs. Glover and her lawyer, Samuel D. Elmore, are holding illegally.

Mrs. Glover and Samuel D. Elmore, her lawyer, are made the defendants in the action started to-day. Here is what Hattie Le Blanc asks of the court in her petition:

"Wherefore your petitioner prays

1. That the defendants and each of them, their agents, servants and attorneys, be enjoined from transferring or delivering any and all of the goods and effects of the petitioner to any person, except it be to the petitioner or her attorney or representative, until the further order of the court.

2. That the defendants and each of them, their agents, servants and attorneys be ordered forthwith to deliver to your petitioner or her attorneys or representatives all of her goods and chattels described in Article 3 of the petition.

3. For such and further relief as justice and equity may require."

It has long been known that when Hattie Le Blanc was arrested she was taken away to jail without being had sufficient time to pack up her effects. Melvin W. Johnson and Farley Bernstein, lawyers for Hattie Le Blanc, declare that they have made efforts to secure the property of the imprisoned girl, but that it has been refused them. This property is known to include certain articles found in the lane-way after the shooting.

WOMAN FIGHTS ARMED ROBBER IN CAMBRIDGE

Held up at the point of a revolver by a robber, Ella O'Dowd, of No. 29 Jay street, East Cambridge, wrestled with the assailant and, in spite of his threat to kill her, battled desperately to overpower him. O'Dowd, who was held up last night as she was about to close her grocery and provision store last night, to-day told the Cambridge police the details of her encounter.

Aided by a description given by the woman, the Cambridge police to-day arrested a man who was later released.

Mrs. O'Dowd was about to close her store to go to her home, No. 159 Bowery, when a man entered the store. He had his right hand behind his back, as though he had a revolver concealed. "If you don't I'll blow your head off."

The woman acted at once. O'Dowd soon regained her composure. As she handed over the handful of money she grappled with the robber, and tried to catch the revolver. Under the unexpected attack of the woman the robber, who had fled from the store in his attempt to beat off the storekeeper, began swing his revolver as if to wave her away with the result that both of his hands were badly bruised by the weapon.

FIRE DANCE KILLS A COLLEGE GIRL

NEW YORK, April 9.—Miss Susan Luttgerden, nineteen years old, died to-day at the Brooklyn Hospital as the result of burns sustained at a college girls' fraternity dance party. Two other young women who went out the fire in Miss Luttgerden's garments were badly burned and several others of the fifty girls at the dance were scorched or bruised in the panic that followed.

NAVAL DESERTER IS CAUGHT IN LYNN

LYNN, April 9.—George Parks, who deserted from the U. S. S. Yankee in September, was arrested here to-day and turned over to U. S. Marshal Charlestown. The arrest was made by Patrolman W. Sears, who called him on the street. Parks is also wanted by the Peabody police. After serving the remainder of his term in the navy, he will be returned to the police of Peabody.

SERVES TWENTY DAYS, GETS NEW SENTENCE

LYNN, April 9.—As he walked out of the Salem Jail to-day, after serving twenty days for assault, Patrick Hetherman, aged fifty, was arrested and taken before Judge Sisk in the police court, here charged with the theft of five pounds of silk thread from a North Shore Express wagon on March 1. Judge Sisk sentenced him to three months in jail. He appealed and his bonds were furnished in the amount of $200 he was remanded to jail.

THREE MASKED MEN ROB A STREET CAR

SEATTLE, April 9.—An Alta Point street car, outbound from Seattle, was held up by three masked men early to-day. They flourished revolvers and commanded everybody to throw up their hands. The conductor and fifty passengers, many of whom were women, obeyed and the three men went through their pockets, taking money, watches and jewelry.

BALL GROUNDS, CINCINNATI, April 9.—The Red Sox opened a series of two games with the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon. The games ought to settle the question of supremacy between the two teams, which was left undecided when the clubs departed from Hot Springs. At the training camp the Griffith bunch broke even with the Boston boys, each team winning five games while three were tied.

The speed boys were represented by their strongest team, except that Captain Hans Lobert, who recently broke his leg, started for home at noon to-day. Larry Gardner was pressed into service to cover third base and his return to-day is confident that he would take care of the bag in good shape.

The members of the two teams renewed friendships before the game. Their long ride from Hot Springs was made in a Pullman, but friendship reached as soon as the ball rang.

Umpire Truby, one of the poorest arbitrators in the business, and last season with the National League, called the plays. Last year he robbed Red Sox of a game by not seeing a double play.

HIBBARD IS APPOINTED COLLECTOR

Ex-Mayor George A. Hibbard was to-day appointed city collector. His appointment was sent to the Civil Service Commission by Mayor Fitzgerald to-day. The former Mayor will receive a salary of $5,000 a year. He will replace City Collector Charles R. Brown, who was appointed to office by Hibbard himself.

Mr. Hibbard's house was called on the telephone. The ex-Mayor was unable to come to the telephone, but was notified that he had just been appointed city collector by Mayor Fitzgerald. He said that he would accept if the appointment were approved by the Civil Service Commission.

GOV. HASKELL UNDER GUARD; FEAR SHOOTING

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 9.—Governor C. N. Haskell is under guard to-day by the police as the result of an encounter last night with Adjutant-General Canton of the Oklahoma militia. A plot was said to have been taken from the General, but witnesses of the incident declare that he made no attempt to draw it. Chief of Police Mitchell to-day announced that he would swear out a warrant for Canton.

The incident happened shortly before the Governor retired. Throughout the night a guard watched at the door of his apartment.

The row started with the launching of Congressman Maguire's campaign yesterday at the Republican committee meeting. Yale Fitzel Regiment furnished the music. After it had been playing for some time, General Canton sent an order forbidding the musicians to wear their uniforms as long as the band's instruments.

The musicians donned civilian clothes and protected their instruments. Governor Haskell sent a note of apology to Canton, declaring his disapproval of the order.

According to witnesses, General Canton hunted for Haskell and overtook him on the stairway of his hotel.

FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME IN $50,000 BLAZE

HAVERHILL, April 9.—Several firemen were overcome early to-day while fighting a fire in the big hat factory of Emerson Brothers in the Bradford district. None of the men were injured seriously. The loss amounts to $50,000.

Two alarms were sounded, bringing to the scene all of the fire-fighting apparatus of the city. Thousands of persons watched the flames as they ate their way through the several buildings of the plant.

The blaze gave the men a hard battle. The fire was discovered shortly after 12 o'clock last night, but it was not until 2 o'clock this morning that the flames were under control.

Flames leaped sixty and seventy feet at times, endangering the railroad station and other buildings across the street.

Hundreds of operatives were thrown out of work. The concern has offices in New York and Boston and manufactures woolen, felt and ladies' hats. The plant is on the site of the old Gilmore hat factory.

Firemen trace the origin of the fire to the big boilers, which assist the drying room, where the fire started.

Hundreds of pieces of wool were destroyed. The heavy, dense smoke from the burning wool added to the firemen, and was the cause of many of them being overcome.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

"Peaches and Cream" Held as Blackmailer.

PARIS.—"Peaches and Cream," known in America as Nellie Boselle, is in jail, charged with blackmail. She was known briefly in New York. "Peaches and Cream" arrived there in September, 1909. Young Jacques Mallet met her at the pier. Mallet's father, who has since died, was head of the banking firm at Mallet Brothers. The immigration authorities did not let Mlle. "Peaches and Cream" to land, and young Mallet returned with her. The real character of the angel-faced girl has become known to all since her return. They say a Government official killed himself because of her. A young secretary of legation squandered very much of a large fortune on her, then was forced to end his career in diplomacy. The mother of Jacques Mallet caused her arrest.

Child Lovers Try to Die.

COPENHAGEN.—A girl of twelve and a boy of thirteen teased by their friends because of their devotion, tried to die together. The morning they were found in the cellar of a house where they were strangers. The boy had killed her with a revolver and then turned the weapon on himself. He is fatally wounded.

Ellen Terry Sees Niece Win.

"JEFF" SINGS; "MUTT" DANCES

Mutt and Jeff, the international humorous characters who are such entertaining features of the BOSTON AMERICAN, were conspicuously a success as reproduced in "Diana's Debut," by the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard last evening in Jordan Hall.

The elongated Mutt was G. P. Gardner, president of the club, and his dumpy friend was impersonated by W. S. Seamans. Their make-up was a splendid piece of work and their characterization of the parts was delightfully funny.

Mutt evinced much talent in the terpsichorean art much to the surprise of his friends and in his "Dance of the Five Senses" and "Interpretation of Mendelssohn's Spring Song" there were suggestions that might prove illuminating to Miss Ruth St. Denis. An audience that taxed the hall to its capacity cheered the clever performers with college vigor.

'VILLAGE SMITH' DIES AT LYNN

Thaddeus W. Tyler, the original "village smith," is dead. It was while watching him at work over the forge and anvil that Longfellow was inspired to write his famous "Village Blacksmith," which begins:

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The village smith stands;

Tyler died at his home in Lynn at the age of seventy-six, after an illness of but four days, with pleuro pneumonia. He was a blacksmith for but a few years. Not long after he had been immortalized by the poet, he went into the shoe manufacturing business, which he continued to his death. He invented the process of moulded stiffenings for shoes.

Mr. Tyler was a close friend of Longfellow and a frequent visitor at his home after the day's work at the blacksmith shop. He cherished his memories of the talks and discussions with Longfellow, and was very proud of the fact that he was the original "Village Blacksmith," though few of those who met him at the shoe factory were aware of it.

Three children, three grandchildren and one great grandchild survive him.

$150,000 LEFT TO CHARITIES

A number of Boston charitable institutions are remembered in the will of the late John H. Pierce of Lincoln, which was filed to-day with the clerk of the Probate Court in East Cambridge. The will is dated April 8, 1907, and names Elsie Pierce, a daughter, and Ellin G. Loomis as executors.

After giving away $150,000 to relatives and friends the residue of the estate is left in equal shares to the Boston Provident Association, Boston Associated Charities, Boston Floating Hospital, New England Hospital for Women and Children, Children's Mission for the Destitute of Boston and the trustees of the Lawrence Academy at Groton.

In a codicil is left $2,500 to the Massachusetts Hospital School for Children, $1,000 to the town of Lincoln, the interest on which is to be added to the salaries of the town's librarians.

FATHER BENSON TO LECTURE IN BOSTON

Rev. Robert Hugh Benson of Cambridge, England, has arrived in Boston for a brief visit and is the guest of the Hon. Bellamy Storer. He will preach to-morrow during high mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. During his stay in the city Father Benson will deliver four lectures on "Religion" at the Fenway Court. The visiting priest is an author of distinction. His father was the late Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury. He was ordained to the Catholic priesthood in 1903.

WEATHER MAN CHASING COMET

Forecaster Smith at the local weather bureau is up against it hard.

Right in the middle of this streak of rotten weather—when the heat, rain, cold, sunshine and other weather goods fell off the shelf and got all mixed together—along comes orders from Washington for Forecaster Smith to get ready to chase the tail of Halley's comet.

The comet is getting nearer and nearer to the earth. On May 17, 18 and 19 it will be at its nearest point to the earth. Then the celebrated tail of this comet will be supposed to envelop the earth.

For the good of science in general the weather bosses in Washington have decided that all the local forecasters at the thousands of cities throughout the country must take special observations of the comet and the comet's tail along the nibble of May. They must note any peculiar atmospheric conditions wrought by the close approach of the comet.

Here are some of the things Forecaster Smith must watch out for:

Halos.
Auroral displays.
Meteor trails.
"The Bishop's ring."
Color of the sunset.
Twilight phenomena.
Luminous clouds.
Zodiacal light.
And anything else he can pick upon the side.

Isn't that a fine stunt for a weather forecaster to have put on his shoulders, in addition to his regular job? The weather man gets himself for everything. Just as Spring was booming along merrily it looks as if we slipped in. Boston has been taking mean about the weatherman for three days.

Next month, when he needs all the time he can get to produce real Spring garden weather, Forecaster Smith must put in his lunch hour and overtime scouting for halos, auroral displays, luminous clouds and anything else that the tail of Halley's comet sees fit to fling in on us.

MAN KILLED BY EXPRESS TRAIN

Dorico Cerla, a laborer employed by the New Haven road, was struck and instantly killed by an inbound express train near the Forest Hills station to-day. The body was taken to the City Hospital morgue, where it was viewed by Medical Examiner Leary. Cerla lived at No. 89 Charles street.

MAN HIGHER UP HUNTED IN BANK INQUIRY

A "man higher up" is accused to-day of complicity in the Southbridge half-million dollar bank scandal. The State police are investigating to-day for the legislative investigating committee.

Detectives are also on a hunt to-day for $200,000, part of Treasurer Hall's loot. This has not been accounted for in any manner. It is declared that one or more persons, besides the defaulting treasurer, benefited by Hall's $400,000 thefts.

To-day the State police are searching in brokerage houses on State street for evidences of Hall's financial operations. They claim that if trace of investments made by Hall with the bank's money can be found it will be possible to recover the funds.

How Checks Were Signed.

This action was taken in the case of City Treasurer Felker of Newburyport, who signed checks with the word "treasurer" after his own name. The courts held that the city could recover from firms accepting the checks. It is said Hall was accustomed to sign checks in a similar manner.

The legislative probe will continue Monday morning at the State House, when six witnesses will be called to tell what they know about the movements of Robert Martin, Hall's brother-in-law, who has admitted that the night of Hall's flight he took a box of securities from the Hall home. Later this box was returned. Mrs. Hall got part of its contents.

One of the witnesses to be summoned Monday will be the caretaker of Hall's summer home at Sturbridge. It is alleged that Martin took the box of securities there while he had it in his possession. A detective has been detailed to hunt for another witness whose testimony is wanted by the committee. The identity of this witness is hidden by the committee.

Statement by Paige.

Calvin D. Paige, president of the Southbridge Savings Bank, which was wrecked by Hall's thefts, has issued a statement denying that Mrs. Hall received any property which should have been turned over to the bank.

"The box that Robert B. Martin, Mrs. Hall's mother, took from the Hall home in Southbridge, and which was referred to before the Legislative Investigating Committee, contained United States bonds, bankbooks of Hall's children, and a deed of property in Denver, this being in Mrs. Hall's name," declared Treasurer Paige. "The children's bank books and the deed to the Denver property were turned over to Mrs. Hall. The bonds were not returned when turned over to the bank.

Mrs. Hall has refused to discuss the matter.

Arrests May Come Next Week.

Although Senator John E. White, chairman of the committee, says that so far as the investigating Committee is concerned, no arrests are contemplated at this time, it is known that the State police became especially active to-day. They declined to say whether or not any arrests are coming. It is thought that any arrests will not be ordered until after Monday's hearing.

The plans for a hunt for the missing $200,000 were made at a secret meeting of the Legislative Committee yesterday at the State House. At the same time orders were issued to State detectives to conduct their search in Southbridge and Boston and to see that six witnesses wanted in the investigation were on hand Monday morning. The hearing at that time will be public.

NEW CLAIMANT AGAIN MEETS W. C. RUSSELL

when the arguments will come to an end. The end depends somewhat upon the endurance of the court and counsel.

The Melrose partisans of Daniel Blake Russell No. 1 are discussing to-day once more at yesterday's session of court which, in view of the charges and counter charges made in the trial was rather remarkable. It was the sight of the claimant in earnest conversation with Attorney Nelson, counsel for the respondent, who has denounced Daniel Blake Russell No. 1 as an "impostor" and "poor white trash."

Claimant and attorney sat facing each other and as near together as their chairs could come. Mr. Nason's hand rested on the claimant's arm, while his client supported the hand of Daniel Blake Russell No. 1. Their confidential talk was rather unorthodox

GIVE YOUR WIFE THAT $275; SHE NEEDS IT FOR HER SUMMER RIG

Have you given your wife that $275 yet? What $275?

The $275 which—as it has been figured—is the minimum amount upon which she can purchase the outer garments indispensable to her being a well dressed woman this Summer.

Talk about your high cost of living. Women say that the real problem for them now is the high cost of dressing. For they can economize and edge themselves on the table, in their pleasures and in their travels, and the world will not know. But last Summer's garment cannot be patched off for new fashions before the unpitying eyes of her sisters.

After a reporter had talked to three department store buyers to-day the conclusion was reached that a woman could not possibly be herself out in the fashionable necessities this Spring for less than $275.

And, remember, this amount does not include underwear, shoes, gloves, veils or any of the neckwear trifles that may so easily run into hundreds of dollars more.

List of Garments.

Here is the list of garments the three fashion authorities agreed would be necessary to a woman who wished to be neatly and suitably gowned for all occasions this Summer:

Tailored suit	$50
Tailored afternoon gown	25
Linen suit	20
Four tailored waists	16
Two lingerie waists	10
Lingerie gown	50
Extra coat	20
Evening wrap	15
Two dress skirts	10
Tailored hat	15
Dress hat	25
Sailor hat	5
Total	$275

This is the high cost of dressing with a vengeance. The three fashion experts and the reporter labored all afternoon to reduce that list, but $275 was the best they could do. And it is not a list for a woman who lives on Beacon street. It is just a plain, serviceable list for the woman whose husband is Mr. Bookkeeper on a moderate salary.

Women Must Have Them.

"You know, now really," one buyer explained, "you cannot get a smartly tailored suit for much less than $50. And if there is any one garment a woman should always have it is a well cut tailored suit.

"A new tailored suit in the Spring and a new one in the Fall will keep a woman going. She can wear the one from the season before to knock about in and for rainy weather, and that will keep her new one in good condition.

"Of course the whole style of a tailored suit is dependent upon its cut and line. That is why I say you cannot get a correctly made suit for less than $50. You cannot get people who know their business to work for you for nothing.

Summer Suggestions.

"The simpler you keep a tailored suit the better; there is no question about that. This Summer there is a tendency to suggest a draped effect in the cut of the tailored skirts. But the idea is a very difficult one to handle, and unless a woman is very sure of her tailor it would be better to adhere to the straight, plain lines.

"The costs of the tailored suits are shorter this Summer, and the newer models button far below the waist line with one large button. The Antoinette frills on the shirtwaists fill in the tops of the coats over the long revers.

"In ordering the linen suit on the list the one suggestion I would make from the cost will would look good. Only the coat of a linen suit should be a little looser or 'easier' than a cloth suit, because the very air's fabric is not quite so supple and therefore if it fits the figure too closely it will spoil and pull out of shape.

Price of Foulard Silks.

"If a woman waits until a little later in the season she ought to be able to pick up a very nice foulard silk or pongee afternoon gown for $25," announced another buyer.

"Of course, you can buy silk afternoon gowns for even less than that right now, but I am assuming the woman for whom we are making the list is fastidious and only wants to wear 'good' clothes.

"Foulard silks are really very popular this Spring," continued the buyer, "and the woman who has not already a pretty border design for the gown would not find it hard to obtain simplicity in the effects, anyway, just now of all the Paris styles—simplicity and combinations.

"The corsage waistline is emphasized and the bodices are made almost a yoke of an armhole. The double idea is the real crape—double skirts, double bodices and double sleeves, but always kept very simple.

"In some of the styles one may detect a resemblance to the modes of thirty years ago.

Collarless Styles.

"On the newer dresses the best accessories are prominent jewelry. That is another fact. It has been many seasons since belts have been as extensively worn as they are now.

"In purchasing a lingerie dress I think a woman might risk a collarless model, the lingerie went on. "You know, collarless styles have been very popular in Paris for several years, but they have not been with much favor on this side because they are more generally unbecoming to American women.

"However, with a lingerie frock, a bit of velvet ribbon about the throat is very good looking and softens the lines of a woman's neck if they are not good."

"Hats," said the second buyer, "are either awfully large or very small; there seems to be nothing between. As to either the close-fitting hats to correspond with the new coiffure or the big, drooping picture hats.

"The tailored shapes are conspicuously plain and severe, while the dress shapes are loaded with trimming. Of course, for $275 one could not buy the costly feathers that are so much used this season, but one could buy a very good looking flower.

"Little roses are good style, or cabochons made of small flowers.

"Hats, even the small ones, are worn straight up away from the face. That is why the underbrims are all faced with black velvet, or with black tulletn, heavily corded."

GREAT RUSH IS ON FOR HOMESTEADS

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 9.—One of the greatest rushes of homeseekers to locate new homes which has taken place in many years, is about to begin here. Hundreds of persons are now here and hundreds more are coming to be on the ground when seven thousand acres of Chouteau County, the largest county in the United States, are opened to the public. One week from next Monday the word will be given, and the stands of persons will rush from here out into Chouteau County and pick out homesteads of 320 acres, each of rich Montana land. There are several points on the Great Northern from which the land is reached. The official opening and entering does not take place until May 18, but one month before that selections and occupation of homesteads are allowed.

NEWSBOYS COMPLETE THEIR REHEARSALS

The newsboys of this city have completed the rehearsals of their minstrel show, which will be given every night next week at No. 217 Tremont street. Those who attend are assured of entertainment, as the boys have spared no pains to make the show the most attractive one they have ever given. Monday night will be called "Customers Night"; Tuesday, "City Club Night"; Wednesday, "Clerkers' of Corn Night." The remaining nights will also be given particular names.

2 FISHERMEN ADRIFT 2 DAYS REACH COAST

HALIFAX, N. S., April 9.—Charles H. Harper, agent of the Dominion Marine and Fisheries Department here, received a wireless message from Superintendent Bonzille of Sable Island last night stating that Edward Snow and John Amero, of the American fishing schooner Maxine Elliott, had landed at Sable Island.

The men had been two days and two nights adrift in a dory and they were greatly exhausted when they reached the island. They started from their vessel in a dory for on the Banks and suffered greatly from cold and exposure. The small store of water they had with them was soon exhausted, and during the entire period they had only three biscuits among them. Both are being well cared for. It is probable that the schooner will take them off the island in the course of a few days as soon as she can be communicated with.

FOSS CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, April 9.—President Taft is "delighted" at the action of the House yesterday in making provision for the construction of four battleships. It was made known this fact to Representative George M. Foss of Illinois, the Republican chairman of the House naval committee.

The Republican Foss introduced to the President to-day his Democratic brother, Eugene N. Foss, recently elected from the Fourteenth Congressional District of Massachusetts. On leaving the White House both the Republican Foss and the Democratic Foss declared that the subject of the tariff was not mentioned during the brief interview with the President.

PERUVIAN-ECUADOR WAR IS INEVITABLE

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—The Peruvian government has negotiated a loan for $230,000 from Ecuador capitalists, according to advices received in the State Department to-day from Lima. This fact, coupled with the expressed determination of Peru to compel Ecuador to reimburse herselves who suffered in the Leguia and Carbo uprisings, strengthens the belief among State Department officials that war is inevitable.

VENEZUELAN BEAUTY LEAPS FOUR FLIGHTS

NEW YORK, April 9.—Carmenc Dolores Gonzalez, a Venezuelan girl, who came to New York as a student before her wealthy family met with reverses, leaped from a fourth story window into the rear yard of 30 Bank street to-day, and is dead as a result, when she heard detectives coming up the stairs to arrest her on a charge of theft, and is dying in Bellevue Hospital. The girl is eighteen years old.

HETTY GREEN GOES TO WORK TO SHOW SHE ISN'T SO SICK

When Hetty Green, the richest woman in the world, read in the newspapers that she was so seriously ill that she might not be able to resume business, she promptly put on her "rainy day" clothes and went to work, "just to show them that I'm able to take care of myself," she said.

She went to her offices at the Park National Bank, although she plainly showed that she was in no condition to do so. She said that she "wanted to show others a good example for industry." The picture was "snapped" as she was about to enter the bank. It gives a good idea of how the richest woman in the world looks—looks still striking in the simple dress of a housemaid. She is seventy-five years old.

CHILD'S PLEA FOR FATHER MOVES MAYOR

A pathetic letter—the tender plea of a little fifteen-year-old girl asking for the release of her father from jail—was received by Mayor Fitzgerald to-day.

The letter, in straightforward, childish language, was written by Annie Smith, No. 1 Lindall place, West End. In it she tells of how she had struggled to support two small brothers and one sister, and of her constant hope that the Mayor will release her father from the Deer Island House of Correction so that he can come home to her.

Mayor Fitzgerald was impressed. He referred the matter to Penal Institutions Commissioner Gove, with instructions that if justice be satisfied that Smith be released.

The letter reads:

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald:

Dear Sir—I am fifteen years old and my father is in the House of Correction, Deer Island. I have two small brothers and one sister and we have no one to support us. My father got sentenced to twenty-one months. He has served half his time. I am sure if you will pardon him he will behave himself and do right and we will all be happy again.

My father was partly put away for non-support. Now he has a job to go to if you will pardon him. We are in need. I am the only one in the family that is able to work as all the rest are very small children. I only work half a week sometimes.

I hope you will grant me his favor, as we cannot get along without him. My brother and sisters look for my father all the time and don't know what to say to them. We will all be happy when you let him out to us.

MAN WHO SHOT GIRL MUSICIAN IS INDICTED

William J. Wilson was to-day indicted by the grand jury for assault with intent to murder his sweetheart Leola Haynes, the musician, whom he shot in her dressing room at the Keeler Tuesday on the night of March 28. She is still in the City Hospital and is now expected to recover, although surgeons at first despaired of her life.

The jury also returned an indictment charging Harry B. W. Simpson with murder in the second degree for the death of Helen Horn on March 5 at their home in Shawmut avenue.

The case of Daniel J. Gillis of No. 80 Brook street, East Boston, who was indicted on a charge of burning a building with intent to defraud an insurance company, presents a peculiar feature according to the police. It is alleged that Gillis doubled the insurance company the day before he set fire to his alleged home.

The report made by the Grand Jury to Judge Walt in the Superior Criminal Court also contained a list of sixty-four bills charging the defendants with various crimes. Seven no bills were reported, in addition to some secret indictments.

MAGIC LEARNED AT HOME BY ANYONE. It takes only a few hours' time. The study is both easy and fascinating. Hypnotism is an endless source of fun and mystery. If you like to know how to hypnotize you can perform the most marvelous feats imaginable. You can do it. Hypnotism means the things that other people cannot do. You can learn to read others' minds and make yourself unseen. You can place others under into strange and beautiful trances. You can cure yourself of bad habits. You can overcome the habits of others and create in their stead amusement for hours at a time. Through hypnotism you can influence any woman and cure diseases and bad habits. It will open to you a new world filled with fun and entertainment or new business and profitable ambitions in life. If you want to MAKE MONEY you can do it by your entertainments, curing diseases or teaching the secrets to others. Hypnotism will do all these things for you. Why work at some irksome task when you can master this money making knowledge in a few hours' pleasant study at home? Costs very little. Write for free illustrated booklet and full particulars of this wonderful fascination and other useful subjects. Address M. D. HUTTS, Dept. 874, 67, JACKSON, MICH.

ITCH-ECZEMA
FREE TRIAL

(Also called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk-crust, Weeping Skin, etc.)

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY and only I can cure it. I say CURED, and not merely relieved for a few days, as others have done before. Now, I do not care what you have used, nor how many doctors have given you up as incurable, you can still be cured. I ask no money in advance in the first place, and I will take the risk. I will send you a FREE TRIAL, by mail, postpaid, sufficient to convince you that I have what you want to do what I claim. If you are disappointed, I have not to give you a penny. Simply write me to-day and say that you will enjoy more real comfort than you have had for years. Don't delay. Don't send a cent, but try it, and you will see I am telling you the truth.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin, the dermis. A penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents, will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons.

ROOSEVELT AND PINCHOT MEET MONDAY

GENOA, April 9.—The "Back from Elba" movement started by ex-President Roosevelt's admirers in the United States takes a spurt Monday, when Colonel Roosevelt receives Gifford Pinchot, deposed chief forester of the United States and one of the former President's greatest admirers and friends. Their interview, "arranged" before Pinchot left the United States, takes place at Port Maurice, where Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt proceeded today from Genoa. There the Roosevelt party will be the guests of Miss Caren, Mrs. Roosevelt's sister.

At Monday's interview between the ex-President and the ex-forester there will be an interesting review and discussion of the Roosevelt policies of conservation. Mr. Pinchot will relate his side of the Ballinger episode, and somebody is liable to be consigned to the Ananias club before Mr. Pinchot departs.

But whatever happens, Mr. Roosevelt declares, he will say absolutely nothing for publication. He has been equally emphatic in stating that he is positive Mr. Pinchot will say the same. America must wait until Mr. Roosevelt reaches home to learn the result of the Port Maurice conference. Developments then may be expected to indicate what the former forester told the former President and what they decided to do about it.

Abandon Honeymoon.

The Roosevelts left Genoa to-day for Porto Maurice, where they will be joined by Ethel and Kermit Roosevelt, after having been obliged to abandon their plan to retrace their honeymoon trip. They found every village and town decorated in honor of their arrival, city and town authorities eager to pay them honors and cheering crowds that hastened to follow them everywhere. They found the privacy they desired on this sentimental journey was the last thing they could secure. They abandoned the trip and hastened to Genoa.

The Colonel's anticipation of getting a rest on this trip was knocked on the head when, dressed in gray flannel and accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, he drove into Genoa and alighted at the Hotel Britannia. He had scarcely time to reach his rooms when representatives of the syndicate, the prefect, president of the port and many other Genoese dignitaries, accompanied by the American consul-general, arrived. The Colonel delayed his tea to talk to the throng and accept the warm welcome, but refused their countless offers of receptions and attentions. He praised the signs of progress and industry in Italy and received the most cordial expressions of Italian amity toward America.

Too Much Attention.

Then the silk-hatted and frock-coated delegation left and allowed the Colonel to get some food and an hour's rest before he drove to the palace to see again the famous Vandyke which is one of the enduring memories of Mrs. Roosevelt's during her last visit here.

From the moment they arrived at Spezia the colonel found it almost absolutely impossible to escape public attention. Seated in a pietteresque three-horse carriage they drove up the mountains and over the same route of the honeymoon. Here, at the top of the pass, a gaily decked hotel carriages with American and Italian flags exhorted, waited.

ROOSEVELT'S VISIT TO MASONS BRINGS PRESS CRITICISM

PARIS, April 9.—Mr. Roosevelt's reception of Freemasons during his stay in Rome has called forth criticism from a section of the reunited Catholic press.

The Gaulois says that the incident justifies the precautions taken by the Vatican, for it indicates that Mr. Roosevelt probably would have received the Sacred after his audience with the Pope. And such an audience takes place, "passing from the Vatican to the Masonic palace as if with the approbation of the Pontiff."

The Gaulois accuses Mr. Roosevelt of wreaking the vengeance of a disappointed tourist and punishing "the unregretted papacy by bowing down before the idol of Masonry."

JEFFRIES SUFFERING FROM SORENESS AFTER FIRST HARD TRAINING

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

JEFFRIES'S TRAINING CAMP, Rowardennen, Cal., April 9.—When advised the other day that he seemed to be setting a rather stiff pace at the beginning of his training, Jim Jeffries remarked: "Oh, phaw, I am not doing anything yet."

It is a noteworthy fact, however, that Jeff suffered from stiffness in the shoulder joints this morning, and that in consequence he decided not to begin his boxing exercises this afternoon. It is quite a disappointment to the correspondents here, as so far the Jeffries campaign has been as dull as dishwater. It was thought that the sight of Jeff with the gloves on would give atmosphere to his training and at the same time afford a live subject for comment. The stiff shoulders, of course, is the cause of it all, although the fact remains that Jeff is as uncertain as to his movements as he was in the old training days at Harbin. There he kept his trainers ever at sea as to what he would do next. I have heard him say to Delaney: "Isn't this rather a hot day for road work"

"Too hot altogether," Delaney would reply.

Jeff Changes Mind.

A few minutes later you would see Jeff oiled in a sweater and heavy boots start off down the pike in the blazing heat. As it was at Harbin it seems to be now although I do not think that Jeff actively his pluas through a desire to be perverse. If he maps out a program for the morrow it is solo, seemingly, not to publish his itinerary, for the chances are he will do something entirely different.

He began today with road work, start ing off toward Boulder Creek in the cool of the dawn. With him were Sam Berger and Farmer Burns, who is known to Jeffries circles as "Old Ironsides."

Berger cried enough after going two miles, while Jeff and the Farmer went along and covered ten miles going and coming.

"He ran clear two miles at one stretch," said the Farmer, "and he also sprinted shorter distances. He is the most wonderful man on the road that I ever tramped with, and I have helped to train many an athlete. The strange thing about him is that he covers ground more quickly going an ground that he does when walking on the level."

Sleeps Out of Doors.

After lunch Jeff took a siesta on the porch of his cottage. This is introductory to sleeping out of doors at night. Jeffries wanted to begin this practice on his arrival here, but was overruled by those who he became better acquainted with the Rowardennia climate. He is convinced now that sleeping in the open air is the correct thing, and will put his plans into effect tonight. After his nap Jeff played a few games of handball and skipped rope, but every one considered it a day of rest for the big fellow. He says he will entirely begin boxing to-morrow, or whether he will or not remains to be seen.

The ring in which he will do his boxing exercise is located in the hotel ballroom, which has been floored with a canvas mat, and it was announced that a part of the roof of the building would be removed so as to admit the sunlight and fresh air. As a reason for this it was pointed out that as Jeff would light Johnson in the open it is well for him to do his practice boxing under as nearly similar conditions as possible.

There is a suspicion, however, that the roof is being removed to facilitate the hiring of moving pictures. Sam Berger returned to San Francisco today on business, and one of his commissions is to purchase some of the lubricant known to fighters as "Hairoleum."

CHOYNSKI SENT FOR IN A HURRY TO AID JEFFRIES TRAIN

JEFFRIES TRAINING CAMP, ROWARDENNEN, Cal., April 9.—In all probability Joe Choynski will be added to the Jeffries training staff. This fact became known today. After a conference between the big fellow, Sam Berger and Farmer Burns, a telegram was dispatched to Choynski in Chicago last night. Word that Jeffries was doing his work with three months before the date of the big battle is said to be the cause of the hasty change in the program.

Berger was in conference with Choynski in Chicago about two months ago, but for some reason no agreement was reached. This latest hasty conference, following reported soreness in Jeffries' shoulders and body, is said to have convinced Berger that the camp was in need of another old and experienced head.

TWELVE TRAINERS WILL BOX WITH JEFF EACH DAY

NEW YORK, April 9.—Jim Jeffries is training for his fight with Jack Johnson and going to take all the slugging he can get. Jack Gleason, one of the partners promoting the fight announced this to-day, showing in proof a letter from Jeffries.

"At the Rowardennen camp Jeffries will have twelve stark sparmates," said Gleason. "Eight of them will be there within two weeks. Jim Corbett is expected by June 1 of not before. And everyone of the twelve will fight one round—not more—by box with Jeffries every day.

"Jeffries is not taking any chances in getting into condition. Though he has been training more or less for a year, it's the last years where he fought. He has set out to show that he is as good as ever. Moreover, he is sore on Johnson for once pelting him to return to the ring.

"You know much that he is ready to hit his hardest punch in this coming fight. He has declared that, you know. All the nearest he came to it was in disposing of Jack Root, and once in the body twice—once in the face, and once in the body. Then he laid out on sleep for three days.

"The fight will be fair to middling and it will be a wonder."

PACKEY LOSES $100 TO WELSH

By HARRY D. CASHMAN.

NEW YORK, April 9.—A correspondent in Louisville writes me that Packey Prendergast proposes to match Welsh, England's lightweight champion, in anything but a favorable fight. But for the fact that the writer is a responsible man, his word is as good as his bond, and his assertion that the story is common property at the National Sporting Club, where Welsh is to place Packey McFarland on May 20, I would be inclined to believe that a mistake had been made somewhere.

Before the match was made, my informant writes, there were numerous acrimonious meetings between Welsh, bringing up all sorts of excuses to dodge the American. One night in the Cafe de Europe, Packey and his manager, Pat Kennedy, met Manager Harry Marks and Welsh by appointment. Talk and wine flowed in about equal parts. Finally Kennedy offered a $100 bet and offered it to Welsh for any amount Welsh was willing to bet on himself.

"Does this Uncle Samuel money look good to you?" asked Welsh.

"It does," answered Freddie, reaching for the bill and shoving it in his vest pocket.

The move was taken as a joke by the Americans, but later Welsh denied having the money, although he says he has it now. Fred took it. Kennedy got angry, and the whole party went to the police court. Later they wandered to the Cranborne, a resort in St. Mary's Axe, for lunch, a mixture of Welsh's and the quarrel was resumed. Welsh broke the pledges, and Kennedy went looking for him. A scrap away he found Welsh and four friends, who proceeded to give him an old-fashioned beating. A blow cut Pat's lip, and in falling he kicked his table so badly that he has been on crutches ever since.

Two days later the proprietor of the Cranborne telephoned Kennedy that the damage bills had been found under the table where the party had been seated. According to the hotel owner, the bill must have been there for five days and nights before it was discovered.

RED SOX QUIT CINCINNATI SUNDAY EVE

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

CINCINNATI, O., April 9.—Manager Donovan and his twenty-eight Red Sox on Sunday night will board the train bound for home by way of Chicago.

That defeat at Nashville looks bad on paper, but as a matter of fact, the Red Sox seldom hit the ball as hard as they did yesterday. But luck was against them and most of the drives went directly at some fielder.

Captain Harry Lord left here for home in Portland, Me., at noon, so that he could be with his family for a day or two before the season opens. He will meet at the Huntington Avenue Grounds on Tuesday afternoon in time to take part in the game between Harvard and Red Sox. Lord says he is away any Gardner will play third base for the Speed Boys. Harry Niles's wife and little boy were at the hotel when the boys arrived this morning. Charlie French brought his wife and child with him from Indianapolis.

Lord Helped on Defeat.

The phenomenal playing of Lynch, the Nashville shortstop, however, had not a little to do with giving the Boston's a run of goose eggs. Pitcher Kerrigan, a very big leaguer, happened to connect and drove the ball over the left field fence, scoring Seabaugh. Bay hit past Stahl, scoring the pitcher and took second on a sacrifice. Collins passed Vinson and Bay scored third. Stahl tripped the man to right scoring Bay and Vinson, making a total of four runs.

Collins Is Replaced.

That's all they got off Collins, but in the sixth Barberich went to the box. He hadn't pitched for the Red Sox since March 21 and the weakness at the start cost him. He passed two men in succession and a single drove one of them home.

Pitcher Eddie Karger, who suffered from chills and fever yesterday, is getting the better to-day, and Tommy Madden, who was badly used, reported to Manager Donovan that he was ready to work again.

Nixon, the outfielder, who has a split fingernail, is the only member of the squad who is not willing to put on a uniform.

The new traveling uniforms arrived from Boston and the manager handed them out to the players this morning. They will be worn for the first time in this afternoon's game.

NOTES OF THE RED SOX.

Our boys had a very hard workout before the game in Nashville which took up half of the forenoon.

Spencer bought a cane made entirely of ball horns at the Nashville State Prison.

Charlie French was warmly greeted by his fellow players when they got off the hotel this morning.

A big portion of Cincinnati fans looked the Speed Boys over in the hotel lobby this morning. Donovan has a split finger ball, he only member of the squad who is not willing to put on a uniform.

JAIL KETCHEL FOR AUTO TRIP

NEW YORK, April 9.—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, and Wilson Mizner (who married and was later divorced from the widow of Charles T. Yerkes) made an unexpected detour on the West Sixty-eighth street police station early to-day after they had started for the Empire A. C. at One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street and Eighth avenue.

Ketchel and Mizner were making tracks for the new sporting organization in the former's automobile when they were stopped by Bicycle Policeman Finnegan at the corner of Broadway and Sixty-eighth street.

The officer intimated that there was no reciprocity manner on Ketchel's machine, and on that charge he arrested the middleweight champion. Ketchel gave his age as twenty-two, his residence as Woodlawn Inn and described himself as a boxing instructor. His friend Mizner offered as security for his appearance in court the house at No. 545 West Eighty-first street, valued at $30,000, and the two went their way.

BASEBALL.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN is the great baseball organ of New England. In to-morrow's issue will be printed a full page of challenges from managers of amateur teams who are seeking games. You can't make up your schedule for the season without the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

MORRIS SUBS AND WINS BOUT

BROCKTON, April 9.—Tim Sullivan of Newburyport, ended to meet Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in a twelve round bout at the Union A. A. to-night, failing to appear, and it was announced that he asked it up too fast yesterday with Sandy Ferguson at his training quarters in Natick and wasn't in any condition to put up a battle.

Andy Morris, who defeated Al Kubiak at the Armory A. A. in a fifteen round bout last night, was substituted for Sullivan, and if any decision is given in favor of Morris, Pat Doherty would have been the winner.

In the first few rounds Morris appeared slow and lumbering, but soon got a little of steam, but after the ninth Fitzgerald dropped the pace and Morris seized the opportunity at will and finishing strong. It was a regular go, with a lot of mixfighting that pleased the members.

Young Hamilton of Taunton won from Young Bennett of Boston in a six-round banging match. Bennett started in strong but Hamilton used in speedily and slammed the Boston boy around to his heart's content. Al Delmont, in Bennett's corner, expressed disgust at Referee Doherty's decision in rendering one.

WHAT BERNARD SHAW SAYS ABOUT WOMEN

In your paper you want to read whatever you may be. You will find it in to-morrow's

Boston Sunday American.

YACHTS CHANGE HANDS.

B. B. Crowninshield, naval architect and yacht broker, reports the following sales: Thirty-six foot cruising yawl Alabore, William M. Campbell of Brooklyn, N. Y., to F. B. Rockwell of Boston; 27-foot yawl Ina, sold his 25-foot auxiliary sloop Cornelia to S. C. Myrick of New York; the 87-foot steam yacht Philemona has been sold by George F. Wood of Boston to Mr. and Mrs. J. Campbell of Boston; the 27-foot auxiliary cruising yacht Maloleona was sold by A. C. Needham of Boston to E. H. Pentfield of England; the 25-foot racing sloop Flirt was sold by E. Bond of Philadelphia to J. J. Bowood of Boston; the Lawley 23-foot cruising auxiliary Ina has been sold by Wilson Child of Boston to Dr. E. H. Nichols of Boston.

To the Amateurs.

As in former years, the columns of the sporting pages of the American are open to the amateur and semi-professional baseball teams of New England for the printing of scores and challenges. Correspondents are requested to write plainly on one side of the paper only and not to crowd a long communication on a postal card. Scores received of games played three or four days previous will not be printed.

YALE ELEVEN TRY NEW RULES

NEW HAVEN, April 9.—After a week's Spring practice the Yale football eleven has not yet reached the serious stage. This will be tried the coming fortnight, and the new rules will be tried out vigorously in actual play. The practice last week ordered the past week on exactly the same lines as the Fall work. The rudiments of punting, quick starting, breaking through and blocking, passing the ball and, finally, signal rehearsal, have been tried. Nothing is left but the actual field work, and two weeks of this will begin Coach Mooney, when laboratory drill in the new rules, for record purposes, will be begun.

Captain Fred Doly has directed all the drill, assisted by Harry Vaughan, who has coached the ends, and Arthur Howe, who as quarterback, has run the varsity eleven. Careful coaching has been ordered in breaking through to accustom the rush line to the use of hands and body under the new rules. The first eleven has been made up as follows:

Left end, Thomas; left tackle, Mesdinger; left guard, Fuller; center, Morris; right guard, Bronson; right tackle, Glover; right end, Arthur; quarterback, Howe; left halfback, Fletter; right halfback, French; fullback, Reynolds.

Keen interest is felt in the working out of the proposed rule requiring the rush line to have seven men scrimmage in a width and the defensive rush line to take no more room than is taken by the men on the occupies. This is the third revolutionary football suggestion made by Walter Camp in the history of football. His first was made in 1887.

SOUTH SHORE HORSE NEWS

BROCKTON, April 9.—Michael Johnson, proprietor of the Howard House, Randolph, left recently for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., with his four-year-old trotter, which he will place in training at that place. The horses will be trained by a brother of Mr. Johnson. The horses have worked well, and the owner has great hopes for their future.

Harry C. Briggs has entered his pacer Lena Gray of Fall River, well known to local horsemen, against the well-known pacer Clasb, 2.08½.

George W. McLaughlin ("Pa" Geers) has bought the bay mare Maud Euhl of Charles L. Fuller, the latter having fallen under the hammer at the Fall River track to start the mare on the 10th. She is a full sister to Euhl Boy, 2.10½.

Fred W. McLaughlin will soon ship his pacer Sunshine to Harry Blanchard of Sandwich, N. H.

"Chrys" Pettigrew threatens to have something new in a short time, but will keep his famous combination hoss, Robert P.

Harry Murphy of Stoughton is on a leaving trip down in Maine. He has commissioned to keep an eye open for speed for several of the local enthusiasts.

Teddy Maher of Whitman has his eye on a 2.00 pacer that he may bring to carry around the Cranberry Circuit, pick up a little money and have some fun.

STRAIGHT DOPE

FOR SPORT FANS

IF THERE IS ANY QUESTION ABOUT the baseball season really being here, take a look at the full page of challenges in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN and get a line on the army of future greats who are looking for games.

The coming Wagners, Cobbs, Mathewsons, Speakers and Adamses know a good thing when they see it, and that's the reason they send their challenges to this paper. They're a classy bunch themselves, those kid ball players, and they know class when they see it. That's why.

A whole page of amateur chainsaws, in addition to complete and accurate accounts of every game played. Can you beat it? Well, not.

TIM FOLEY, MANAGER OF PORKY Flynn, says his protege got a rough deal at the hands of New York sport writers in his recent bout with Jim Sullivan and to a man up a tree it looks as if there was no chance to spring the "that's what they all say" gag. In the final round Jack Savage of all but out and if the bell had been a few seconds later in coming it would have been curtains for the Porky one. Foley says last night's rough stuff pulled off in those no-decision bouts over in the big town.

IF YOU ARE TIRED OF LIFE AND don't care what happens to you, here is the chance of your existence. I have been asked to announce that the Norfolk County League is looking for four good pitchers for the coming season, for games to be played on Sundays and holidays. Anyone looking for trouble can get action by addressing J. F. Hillie, Hyde Park, Mass.

HUTCHHAIDER L. HASSEING, THE Greek wrestler, would like to meet Sam Anderson at catchweights. Hassling has credit with a full nelser that Anderson is fifteen minutes and a half.

MAYBE THE MYSTIC SOCIAL AND Athletic Club of Charlestown won't have some class at the ball to be given by the club on next Wednesday night at Roulston Hall. It will not be second class, by George. "Matt and Jeff" will take a swig of "nervine," which will give them life and they will appear under the bill. Jeffy would like to see "Charlie" be allowed to attend, so it is assured that she will appear. Maybe that funny trio won't show some class. What?

THE MELROSE HIGH FRESHMEN have a baseball team that will be heard from before the season is over. They have been working out the past two weeks at the Pine Banks park under the direction of Lincoln Stedgeing, and if their practice has anything to do with their playing they certainly can deliver the goods. Stedgeing will do most of the pitching, with McCarthy and Hadley, the lefty, to relieve him. Jones will do the catching, while Hosler will cover first. Lands and O'Donnell are having a merry scrap for second, with Lands the favorite. "Preacher" Merrill has been taking care of short in great style, while McCarthy is stationed at third. Gordon is filling the role as utility man, and will not have much trouble in holding down his job, on account of the fine way he has been chatting the ball. The outfield is still very uncertain, but Coach Stedgeing has designs that seem to have the call, although the other candidates may take any one of these places, they are so evenly matched. And Freshmen teams winning games should always Frank McCarthy, 18 Sewall street, Melrose, Mass.

TOM SHARKEY DOESN'T HOLD TO the theory that champions and near champions cannot come back, and now he is going to be at the ringside on July 4 next and challenge the winner of the Jeff-Johnson battle. The ancient mariner, who nitred it in strenuous style before with Jeffries and gave him the toughest scrape of his career, has been footloose of the water-wagon for a long time, but this announcement will lend a gal or sports to proceedings that have been dull as they hasn't though. Tom is troubled with a looseness of the feet and has a talking with his pedal extremities.

FUNNY KIND OF DOPE THEY SMOKE over in Australia, where Tommy Burns has been making his medal since Johnson relumed him for the championship. When offered a match with Langford he asks $25,000, win, lose or draw, to come over and fight. Tommy had a hard struggle to keep on of the pork and beans class and was never better than a good second-rater even when he won the title from Marvin Hart, and his nerve in asking $25,000 is something appalling. He really should have more sand. They're mixing you nice in his hop toy.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—In order to decide a bet please state the following: Who defeated Jack Root in the Coliseum, Chicago, Dec. 9, 1904? Who defeated Jack Blackburn at the Armory A. C. three years later? Both contests were 15-round decisions. Pushing one or another. I am, yours truly, STRAIGHT DOPE READER. Manchester.

Maddox defeated Sara at the Armory A. A. a couple of months ago. That was Maddox's only appearance in Boston. I have no record of the number of times Kid Sara has boxed there, but he has shown a number of times in preliminaries.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—Please decide the following bet: A says Tommy Burns won the championship from Jack O'Brien. B says he lost to him by Marvin Hart. Who won the big, end man Jack O'Brien over a period of ten years? Thanking you in advance, I remain yours truly, BENTON. Worcester, Mass.

Jeff announced his retirement in 1905 and then refereed a bout between Marvin Hart and Jack Root, stating that the winner would, in his opinion, be the man to succeed him. Hart knocked Root out. This was at Reno, Nev., July 3, 1905. Burns defeated Hart in twenty rounds in Sydney, Australia, February 23, 1906, winning the title.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—As we seem interested in together and would like to know if a man with Cuban birth could succeed as a pugilist, or if any of the men now before the public as "good ones" have done so? If so, please give me information, I am, yours truly, GEORGE O. MERRILL. Greenwood.

Wouldn't that rock you for a short period? However, quite a few good scrappers have gold grinders. It might be unwise to get some of those detachable ones, so you could lock them up somewhere before you go into the ring. It would be a sad affair if the other fellow knocked them down your throat and they hit a piece out of your solar plexus as they went down.

JAMES J. BUTLER, SHAWMUT AVE.—I reckon I'll have to plead guilty to being the Blue Grass kid all right. And about that headline—I pass.

Straight Dope:

If you know of any manager of a nineteen-to-twenty baseball team who wants an infielder, another player for his team or know of through your column, and oblige, JACK PURDY. Somerville, Mass.

ANDERSON WRESTLES WARM COMPETITOR

The wrestlers at next Wednesday night at the Columbia Theatre will be Charles Hackenschmidt and Sam Anderson. The latter is not from the north of England, but a cracker-jack wrestler from Des Moines, who comes here with a long record of victories to his credit. His merits may be known when it is stated that it took Hackenschmidt's best efforts to get Hackenschmidt's shoulders squarely on the mat.

Sam Anderson is well and popularly known in Boston, having appeared at the Columbia Theatre. The match promises to be as hot as any that Manager Harry Fatren has provided in the fine series of wrestling events he has given Columbia Theatre audiences.

ROY GREEN SIGNS.

Roy Green, who was the all-interscholastic pitcher on last year's champion English school team, has signed with Jimmie Collins's Providence team and will play against the Boston Nationals on next Tuesday at the South End grounds.

LOTHROP, JR., BUYS YACHT BLACK HAWK

Thornton K. Lothrop, Jr., a well known Boston yachtsman, has purchased the forty-two-foot water line schooner yacht Black Hawk from Charles M. Gibson of Newton Highlands, through the Hollis Burgess Yacht Agency. The Black Hawk is 42½ feet over all, fourteen feet four inches beam, eight feet three inches draft, and was built in 1903 by C. F. Hood at Jupiter Harbor, Me. She has a large cabin and is very comfortable. She is a very substantial and able cruising yacht. Mr. Lothrop is planning a long trip to Nova Scotia in her this season. She was not negotiated with those waters, having cruised there for the last two seasons in his sloop yacht Little Hope.

The Hollis Burgess Yacht Agency has also sold the following boats: The twenty-one foot knockabout Gosling, owned by Robert Saltonstall of Boston to a prominent Boston yachtsman; the 25-foot knockabout cabin on her; the Sonder boat Sully VIII., owned by Joseph F. Doyle of Sully to Dr. Charles E. Hollier of Boston, and the twenty-one foot knockabout Water Lily, owned by W. H. Shaw of Quincy, to William J. Alyward of Boston.

JONES GETS TIE WITH RYAN.

In the fifteenth game of the three-cushion-carom match at the Imperial last night Jones defeated Ryan 50 to 47. Jones's high run was 5 and his average .250. Ryan's high run was 9, average .266. Jones and Ryan are tied for first place and will play off Wednesday, April 15.

ST. JOHN'S PREP. TO HAVE A GOOD TEAM

The outlook for another excellent team at St. John's Prep. is very bright. About fifty candidates for the various positions are being given a trial. Murphy, last year's first baseman, has been elected captain of the nine. St. John's has one good defender of the colors.

Lajoe, McLaughlin and Flanigan are the candidates for the box. Heffernan will do the pitching, with Woods and Murphy as substitutes. Captain Murphy will cover first base, while Cumbee, Wall, McCann and Collins will fight it out for second. Scully and Sullivan will be going hard for shortstop. Maguire is out for third, but he will have to travel some to beat young Doherty, who is a new and very fast man. McGuffee, Lynch and Joyce, all vets, will make say new competitors for the outfield berths.

WESTON STILL PLODDING.

TOLEDO, O., April 9.—Edward Tilyou Weston left Bryan, O., this morning bound for Toledo. He is expected to arrive in this city late to-day.

HOCKEY GAMES AT ICE ARENA

Harvard and the Crescent Hockey Club and the two high school scrubs have completed their arrangements for the two hockey games that will be played on Monday at the benefit for the Sharon Sanatorium at the Boston Arena. The Harvard-Crescent match will begin at 6 o'clock in the evening and a big delegation of supporters will be on hand to cheer the collegians. Cheering will be one of the keen over the final Dole Winner and is said to be developing new lines of attack. The players will be as follows:

HARVARD		CRESCENTS.
Chandler, goal		Goal,
Hamilton, Ives		Point,
Dodge, covers		Cover,
Hubbard, Bancroft		Forwards,
Duncan, left center		Center,

Leslie left forward, Frank Hall, right forward.

The Boston High and Newton High will line up in the afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, as follows:

ARLINGTON		NEWTON
Billings, goal		Goal, Hall
Beckler, point		Point, Cooke
Bell, point		Cover point, Bell
Sumner, cover point		Cover point, Sumner
Wood, rover		Rover, Wood
Chase, left wing		Left wing, Chase
Child, left center		Left center, Child

The Boston 1915 Skating Club members will compete in the speed contests together with their members, are as follows: Class A, Merritt, Frost, P. Hussey, S. J. E. Sisco, J. Elmer J. Mooney, J. Daniel Donahue, S. Chester Connors, S. Paul Irish, 10, Samuel Asbuhl, 11, Joseph Hall, 12; 13th, Samuel Hall, 14; C. F. Needler, 15; George Trudbe, 16, Joseph Kelley, 17; A. Nevin, 18; T. Chittenden.

HORSE NOTES WINTER CHAT

The trotter-sired Todd filly, out of Straight On (2.12½), son of Strathmore (2.05¾), is in Dennie Neyland's stable at Readville.

President Daniel Paine of the Fellsway Driving Club, will breed his little outboard pacer Dan Boy to Winter Hill, the son of Todd (2.14¾).

A. H. Merrill of Braintree, the popular starter, has bought the well-known Standard bred Zandalia (2.09¾), by Zombro (2.11¼), dam Zandalia, by J. A. and J. Wilkes of Marysville, Ohio. The purchase is said to have been made for a New England owner.

Preparations are already being made for the coming season by the owners of the big tent at Readville, in May. The Judge James Armstrong, the three-year-old by J. Miller Dresser, one of the oldest representatives of the well-known Bird family, will arrange all the preliminary details of what promises to be the largest and most successful meet ever known in the history of New England.

George H. Leonard, of the Metropolitan Driving Club, has entered the three-year-old colt, Krell, in some $10,000 worth of futurity stakes for the coming season. Krell will start in the great Kentucky futurity, in the American Horse Breeders' futurity, and in the similar event at Cleveland.

Benjamin Pope, the Almont breed fancier, purchased and breeder of The Leading Lady, 2.07, the champion three-year-old filly, from Mrs. Edward Sumner in February, for $5,000. Mr. Sumner sold the mare, and has so arranged his affairs that he will be able to go to the fitness for racing purposes in Austria, Germany and Italy.

Jimmy Carpenter has six head in his stable at the Readville race track, and will be several new ones in a few days. Among them is the four-year-old mare Anna Todd, by Fred Kohl (2.02½), owned by Horace Mayhew. Plimbird N. J. Anna Kohl was well in her work at Readville the last season, and is her only start. In the three-year-old class is the pacing filly, who is a very comfortable second to Charles Bingen.

Marvin M. Lounsbury has purchased of Fred Sanborn, first vice-president of the Fellsway Driving Club, the mahogany bay gelding, Sanborn. The announcement, while creating plenty of gossip, does not necessarily mean that Warwick of Boston is to enter the racing game. Marvin drives miles about town to keep up his perfect fences in excellent repair, and he has secured the gelding for this purpose.

ELECTED MANAGER B. C. TRACK TEAM

Francis Bowley, '11, of Quincy was elected manager of the Boston College track team for next year at a meeting held in the college gym on James street yesterday afternoon.

Bowley prepared for college at Quincy High School and has always been well known in track circles. He has won a number of prizes for the quarter and half-mile runs.

Y. M. C. A. MEET AT SALEM GYM

SALEM, April 9.—Contests for the gymnastic and wrestling championships of the Young Men's Christian Association of New England will be held in Salem Y. M. C. A. Gym April 10 as follows: Individual calisthenics, battles and mass running, group calisthenics, group dancing, horizontal bar, parallel bars, horse, special comedy, single and double handling, club swinging, set exercises, rope-climbing, apparatus and tumbling, wrestling, 105 pounds, catch-as-catch-can, 125 pounds, catch-as-catch-can, 158 pounds, catch-as-catch-can, free style. Prizes, first aid to the injured, medals and the three leading teams of the Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. League and Salem.

The gymnastic championships will be awarded the contestant earning the highest total score, provided he shall have competed in at least three events as follows: 1, individual calisthenics; 2, horizontal bar or flying rings; 3, horse; parallel bars or tumbling, set exercises in which the contestant took the better apparatus. Byes or byders cannot be substituted for the above events, but points earned in the set exercises will be counted for the champion ship. Not more than one person will be allowed to enter from each association. The contests will proceed in these six places simultaneously, and the management cannot assume that contestants from a distance can finish in time to leave Salem at 9:30 p. m. Trains run from the Salem Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, April 12.

BASEBALL NEWS NOTES

The Dayton team of the Central League batted the Notre Dame nine 13 to 0 in an exhibition game, but were unable to get away with the game from the Naps.

The first exhibition for the Cubs was to be up the Sox and the Tigers will go after Sunday's and Monday's games. The Sox will play Sunday and Monday and the Tigers will watch the Sox. Both will watch the outcome of these games.

So Connie Mack praises the Red Sox. Well, it is rather encouraging anyway.

It took the choice Lajoieless team and Cleveland 10 innings to defeat the New York Americans, the game going twelve innings.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were introduced to President Taft during their stay in Washington, but the Prexy failed to find out the season opened next Thursday.

Jim Maguire has branded his infield as "all right."

Two Cleveland players are absent on the sick list. Bradenham has a slight touch of malaria and Elmer Flick has his old trouble, a bad stomach.

CHAMP TREMBLAY LOSES ON THE MAT

MONTREAL, April 9.—Raoul de Rooni defeated Louis Tremblay, champion of Canada, after two hours and forty minutes of wrestling, this evening. The bout was a hard one, and Tremblay was lucky to get a draw with Lajoie. He left Boston March 15. He is carrying a message from Governor Draper to Governor Gillette.

RIVAL HORSES IN MATCH RACE

BROCKTON, April 9.—The long-watched-for race between the pacers Young Bayard and Louise D., owned by Charles D. Tyler and Teddy Maher, respectively, both of Whitman, will be pulled off this afternoon on the Morse avenue speedway of the local driving club. This match race will be for a purse now held in custody by George Derr of Whitman.

Brockton and Whitman horsemen "chipped in," and quite a purse was made. The question as to who has the fastest horse in Whitman is at stake on the result, and the loser must agree to keep silent for one year. Mr. Tyler, owner of Bayard, says:

"Teddy has said that Louise D. would be ready for a race with my horse at any time or at any place with twenty minutes notice. I'm giving him a little longer time than that. I want to win badly. But if I don't there'll be no hard feelings. I want this question settled forth way of the other it's getting me nervous."

JIMMY WALSH WINS AGAIN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 9.—Jimmy Walsh and it must have been the cyclone, for he keeps a decision rattle after he and Eddie Greenwald of Milwaukee had finished their ten-round bout.

Greenwald has been touted here as a candidate for the lightweight championship, but showed that he will have to wait awhile to be a serious aspirant for the honors.

Walsh and Greenwald jerked even in the first, second and third rounds. The first was Greenwald's, and then Walsh came back in the fifth, sixth and seventh and the battle to that time.

In the sixth there was some pretty infighting, and the fans were even, though in one exchange to the head Greenwald received a cut over the left eye, glassing blood. The seventh was Walsh's by a shade, and in the eighth Walsh materialized from Greenwald's nose.

The ninth and tenth were both Walsh's rounds, the Boston boy going strong at the finish, putting in lightning blows in such profusion and force that Greenwald grew groggy through both rounds. Walsh was landing almost at will, but Greenwald was able to prevent a knockout punch.

BOSTON TO FRISCO WALKER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 9.—Jack Eldridge, twenty-five years old, of Camden, N. Y., a salesman who is walking from Boston to San Francisco, arrived in South Chicago last night, five days ahead of his schedule. He remained over night at the South Chicago police station and continued his journey this morning. He left Boston March 15. He is carrying a message from Governor Draper to Governor Gillette.

SOME PEOPLE DON'T

There are many people in this world who don't wish to be convinced of something that they think isn't so. To such people there is no use in directing our arguments. To the open-minded man—the man of intelligence, who has not yet lost his faith in humanity—we wish to say that we would like to make you a suit of clothes.

The price will be $15 to $25—depending on the pattern of the cloth you select from our large stock. The cut and fit will be adjusted to your personal requirements. The wear and workmanship will be guaranteed absolutely.

If you intend to pay $15 to $25 for a suit, surely there can be no objection to calling at our shop and looking over our line of rich grays, blues, blacks and every seasonable shade. Open until after 10 o'clock this evening. Drop in, any time, while over this way.

The Secret of Happiness

Like What You Have and Then You Will Have What You Like

By DOROTHY DIX

THE next secret of happiness is:

To like what you have and then you will have what you like.

Are you dissatisfied, discontented? The only remedy for it is to quit finding fault with your lot in life, and make yourself contented with it. Stop searching for the faults in your surroundings, and start on a still hunt for the virtues.

And, believe me, there is nothing in life that has not its drawbacks, and nothing that has not its advantages.

Do you bemoan yourself because you are poor? Bethink you that you have many blessings that the rich man never has. You alone know the sweetness of the real human relationship. You never lie awake at night wondering if the wife at your side married you for love, or whether she was as truly bought as any of your other possessions.

You are not afraid to take the hand that is extended to you in friendship or fellowship, lest it may be reaching for your pocketbook instead of your heart. The rich man is debarred from all real friendship and true human intercourse with his fellows. Suspicion hedges him in around like a stone wall that friendship may not either climb over nor come in.

Decent Poverty a Pleasure

Don't hate the decent poverty that brings love and friendship, and trust, and loyalty to you, and you will find out that instead of being a source of misery it is a well-spring of joy.

Suppose your table is plainly spread, and your drink is beer instead of champagne. Don't worry over the lack of the fine wines. Cultivate a beer taste and you will have the vintage that you prefer. If we spent as much time and effort in developing an appetite for roast beef and potatoes, and the pianola, as we do for acquiring a taste for caviar and olives, and French farce, we should be better off physically and morally. It is the simple things that are wholesomest and least apt to give us dyspepsia.

Do you fret and fume because you have to make your living by the sweat of your brow? It's all in the point of view what is work and what is play. Hoeing potatoes has all the excitement and physical exercise and fresh air in it that golf has, with the additional advantage that it is of some practical use in the world. Between the motorman on a street car that runs into the suburbs and the man who drives his own automobile there is only the difference that one does it for pay and the other does it to do it.

In reality human ingenuity has been invented any other game so fascinating, so thrilling, so absorbing as the sport of work, and the beauty of it is that men and women cannot only engage in it, but are actually paid to take it and take a hand. Just quit thinking about your work being drudgery, friend, and think about it as a voyage of discovery that you start on daily, for there is always something new to find out about it; think about it as a bit of romance, for there are love stories and adventures in every yard of ribbon that goes over a counter, in every plank that goes into a house, in every bale of merchandise that is shipped over seas; think of it as a triumph of science, for in every manufacture man has wrested some secret from nature; think of it as a gamble, for in the end, when man has done his utmost, there comes in the element of chance.

Put the sublimities after the unattainable out of your life, and think of your little flat as a place that you can make a heaven on earth if you will. Think of yourself as blessed among women in that you have a husband whose love you never have to question and for which you do not have to fight with chorus girls and the adventuresses that prey upon rich men; think of it as a privilege that you can help your husband win his way in the world, and when you hold your babe on your breast know that something more and sweeter has come to you than any million-aires ever experiences whose children are turned over to be raised by trained nurses and governesses.

Just remember that a string of real pearls is a poor substitute for a baby's arms around your neck.

Look for Good Qualities

Suppose you are one of the disgruntled that have failed to get your affinity in marriage. Your husband may not be the noble and heroic being you thought him. Your wife may lack a good many of the angel qualities you imagined she possessed.

Don't dwell on your life partner's short comings. Don't forever be rehearsing his or her faults. Cut it out. Reflect continually on his or her virtues. Remember how hard John works to make you comfortable, instead of the fact that he forgets your birthday, and is nervous and irritable. Recall how true, and loyal, and self-sacrificing Mary is, instead of remembering that she never understands a joke and has gotten fat and freckled.

In a word, like what you have, and you will have what you like.

And it's about the only way that you will ever get it.

School Discipline

By WINIFRED BLACK

TEACHER'S mail.

She wrote and told me so this morning.

"You don't know much about schools or pupils," said she in her letter. "What a chance would they have to learn anything, pray, if we allowed them to twist around in their chairs all the time?"

Excuse me, teacher, I didn't mean to make you mad. I know you have a pretty hard day's work every day, and I don't blame you for being tired and a good deal worn out at the end of it. Of course, you can't let the children play tag when you're trying to teach them the capital of Chile or Ecuador, or any other place, can you?

But don't you really think that you are apt to think more of discipline and of the things in the books than you are of the little human souls and bodies which are in your care all day long?

Do you really think it is quite as important to know which is the nominative case and which is the transitive verb as it is to grow up into a healthy, normal man or woman, as the case may be.

I don't suppose you or any of the other teachers are to blame for the system which turns living, breathing boys and girls into just so many cogs in a great machine. But somebody's to blame, and I wonder if they realize what they are about when they do it.

The leading physicians in this country are all declaring that half the cases of curvature of the spine come from the fact that little, growing children are compelled to sit too long in one position in the school room.

Suppose you had a little girl, teacher. Honest and truly now, would you rather have her sit stiff and prim in school, and learn just what a minus b equals, when there's a minus x somewhere in the problem, till she developed some nervous disease, or would you rather she grew up into a healthy, good natured woman, even if she never heard of an algebra, and didn't know what minus or plus meant?

Look at the other side of the shield once in a while, teacher. You'll be surprised to see how different it is from that side.

SHE MEANT WELL

The young son of a Western family was away from home for his first year in college. His mother had been to visit him, and upon her return met a friend, who asked if her boy was homesick.

"No," said the doting mother. "I was afraid he would be, so I saw that he was located in one of the best maternity houses of the college."

Is Love at First Sight Really Possible?

A WOMAN CAN EARN $5000.00 A YEAR

Learn Dressmaking at Home

We will teach you by mail and enable you to command a good income or you can start in business for yourself. Many women nowadays are earning $100 a week—$5,000 a year—by dressmaking. Our women, the head dressmaker of Chicago's largest retail dry goods house, is paid to receive $10,000 a year. Salaries of $25 to $250 a week are common. Because we are Graduate Dress-maker. The regular diploma of the college is issued to all who complete the course of lessons. Our American System is the most simple and complete in every detail. These lessons will teach you how to cut your own patterns and make your own clothes and enable you to choose home or one-half the usual cost, also how to design, draft, cut, fit, make and finish in a manner that will please a critical eye.

WHAT ARE THESE LESSONS WORTH?

Our Graduates say: "I have made 25 waists (6 silk ones) all perfect fit." "I have made the price of my course by making my own silk dress." "My husband is surprised and pleased." "I have a dozen pupils and am making a nice living." "I have made $200 in my new commodious dressmaking parlors." "I have made $900 for myself and others since I graduated." "I have made $700 for myself and others since I graduated." "I have made $700 for myself and others since I graduated." "I have made $700

How Erudite Boston Lives, Told New York by Humorist N. H. Dole

Nathan Haskell Dole, member of Boston literary circles and author of studies in a varied assortment of literatures, added to his repertoire by going to New York to represent Boston as an "ernest frend of simplified speling," as he put it, in a meeting held at the Waldorf-Astoria, even as William Archer represented England. Before entering upon this duty, however, Mr. Dole essayed giving some points of information upon literary Boston, her working and her people, the while admitting that this was very hard to do here in New York, where the atmosphere has a peculiarly effervescent effect upon the mental action of even the most representative of Bostonians.

Mr. Dole opened his report with mention of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who he said at the time of his departure was preparing to celebrate one of her annual birthdays.

Some Birthday Jokes.

"You know," he explained, "she has several each year. She must, because she is so popular that otherwise she would not be able to supply the demand; so she has to multiply them to go around. Thus the pleasing of several her sitting in series and venerable dignity, the familiar white Normandy cap always present, celebrating a birthday, is the possession of every Bostonian of literary pretensions—as it is necessary or possible to give figures!—once during every year.

"In the Spring the Bostonian fancy lightly turns to thought of serpentine type," mused Mr. Dole thoughtfully, hazarding the laying the blame of such remark at the door of New York's atmosphere. "In the Spring that is always so, even though I should express it differently in Boston, our idea of Spring it is unusually so. For it is all Bostonians can afford, save rearing autos Boston has just emerged from an orgy of opera, you know."

"But what has that to do with buying autos?" he was asked.

"Why, autos are the only thing they can mortgage for books," he explained, "and the public purse is depleted."

The numerous clubs have on their Spring ventments of gayety, according to Mr. Dole. There has just been another meeting of the Dinner Knights Club, of which Colonel Higginson—Colonel, not Major, for Boston boasts two Higginsons of rival fame—is the head, though he declined that absent at this last meeting.

"It is a practice of the club," said Mr. Dole, "at every meeting to give a copy of the new edition of those in circle guest. On this occasion the practice was not departed from." Which speaks well for the prospects of the automobile dealers.

The famous Hibliophile Society is doing as well as could be expected, considering its purchases of rarelle, he continued, which was rather a strong statement, as this society might reasonably be expected to do pretty well, seeing famous as it is, as having enrolled the wealthiest buyers in the world, including John Pierpont Morgan and William K. Vanderbilt, Jr. There are 500 individuals in the society and 500 on the waiting list. Aside from institutions such as the Library of Congress, the British Museum and the Boston Athenaeum, though, it is asserted, it is painful to say, no Public Library itself, even though it can boast of having stowed in its archives Shakespeare's folios to the value of $50,000 and of many corrected "early Dickens" errors to complete accepted edition of classic. The ancient saying quoted by the Hibliophiles is to publish in an orthodox and satisfactory manner such works as these and Horace Thwerring, the editor of Major Hoosaday, the letters of Keats and those of Dickens to Miss Coutts, Dora's original with a series of title pages to the book, American prints.

Some Recent Guests in Town.

Next week on Tuesday at Cambridge before the Cantabrigia Club—ladies exclusively—whose name, Mr. Dole says, does not signify the presence of any statutes against frivolous bridge playing, the play of Percy Mackaye is to be read by a sister of the poet-dramatist, Mrs. Daskam, who told of the recent activities of the literary lives of this temporary New Yorker, who time passed on to mention a few individuals.

Prominent among these stands Mrs. Marks, Josephine Preston Peabody, who, according to Mr. Dole, is going to have babies and the rest of her manuscripts remain to sailing for England in July, at Stratford-on-Avon Mrs. Marks's play, "Piper," with which she won fame in Boston by winning a 500 guinea prize, is to be produced.

The vice-president of the Boston Authors' Club and granddaughter of the founder of Ticknor & Fields, Mrs. Caroline Ticknor, is bringing out an edition of the love letters of John Hay, written those to her in a lonely Western town, to Nora Perry of Providence, R. I. It is said the letters are full of melancholy and sentiment.

In addition to its regular inhabitants Boston has had some recent visitors of more or less literary nature. Roosevelt's wild African trip has been reported upon there by Lecturer Dawson, who in an exhaustive tool of the adventure of the hunter and the hippotamus. In a light cliff, remarked Mr. Dole on the work of Mr. Dawson, sat the hunter; from the bank crouched the hippo. The scene pinged at the black snout of the latter; the latter roared. The former, unterrified, shot recely at the yawning mouth, then at the vivid spot. The while Kermit, the chip, was unconcernedly taking his own shot at the yawning mouth with his camera, scored neither a hit nor a miss. The pictures were favorably received in Boston.

Esau's Trouble Dodging Grief

By KENNETT HARRIS

"WESLEY TOPMADDEN wasn't the ou'y feller 'at made his life miserable 'round o' behin' scart outen his boots hat the time," said Washington Hancock when the comment on his last story had come to an end.

There was a silence in the circle that was broken at last by the storekeeper. "Oh, go ahead an' tell it," he said. "You might as well 'cause I'll say right here an' now 'at anybody 'at wants to go is welcome to. Mabbe I oughtn't to tell it anyway. But I will!"

"I see somebody chokes you," suggested Dean Baxter.

"Well, the feller I had in mind was Esau Hancock," said Hancock, frossing once long leg comfortably over the other. "Esau was a mighty shif'less critter, Hailey way along back in the old days when Sol Jim kept all over the top of his hand. He was a strappin' six-foot, two-fifted feller, an' he was unmarried, too, an' he had to be to teach that Peaylee Holley school. There ain't no doubt 'bout it, so you needn't figger, 'at there wasn't hardly a day when he didn't have to lick two or three of 'em.

How the Tragedy Began

"Fin'ly a young red-headed rooster, name o' Jud Carson, tied his powder flask under Esau's chair an' set fire to a train of powder stretchin' in it. I reckon Esau would have busted through the roof if he hadn't heard the fuse a-sizzlin' an' crossed down quick like. When he seen the flask he frowned, whose it was an' he whaled Jud within an inch of his life.

"The next day, a cousin o' Jud's, name o' Elmer Dale, shot a couple barrels, came up to the schoolhouse with a cowhide in one hand an' a horse pistol in the other, an' allowed he'd learn Esau to be a mite perrickler whose kin he flogged, but Esau was too spry for him an' laid him out with a black eye an' he was just a-goin' to lead him into the stove.

"He didn't aim to do no'th'n' exack the feller's head open, an' he done that, but he opened it too blame wide an' now you know 'at Dale, Wetherell an' Jud Carson, somebody chokes you," suggested Dean Baxter.

"Well, Esau gave himself up to the sheriff, but everybody knowed it was just happen-so, an' couldn't be helped an' he was let go; but whilst he was in jail, the Wetherells an' the Carsons made a heap o' talk 'bout the funeral, an' the corpse's brother laid his hand on the coffin an' swore, strike him blind, that he'd drink Esau's blood if he had to foller him to hell an' back.

"Perry Wetherell, that was, an' he was a turrible sight to look at that day, with his long black eyes snappin' an' his long black mustaches curlin' up at the ends.

"The day after he was let out Esau got on to the train, but as it was startin' he an' got the conductor to let him set in the baggage car, as a favor, an' he had a friend with him an' the boys a-comin' to see him off, an' they was a-runnin' by the train until he had to keep his hands of his coat pockets that he kep' his hands on, as he set facin' back'ards to the door.

"When they got to Sc. Joe he waited till everybody else had got off the train a little farm he'd got in the Black Crick bottom, an' pay the taxes outen the rent, but he didn't give no ad-dress an' wasn't till more'n fifteen years after 'at he an' Wardner had their settlement.

"The fust anybody heard of him was when Bert Smalley came back from a trip to White Cloud, Kansas. He was teachin' school there, then, an' goin' by the name of Elmer Brown an' he was right well thought of ceptin' that it wasn't safe to go too close to his house after dark, 'cause you hollered out who you was an' what you wanted.

"They told Bert that hed shot one feller through the shoulder 'bout three or four years ago, a complicated feller with a fine, black mustache an' mighty nigh had trouble over it. He said that he mistook the feller for another feller an' said he'd doctor bill an' gave him $25 to pay him for the inconvenience, so they settled it, but it was.

"Bert never more than seen him, though. As soon as he got to Kansas he was let turned pale an' scooted off at seech a gait that Bert couldn't get a square nose him, an' Bert tried to find him the nex' day he left town.

"About four years after that Jerry Ackerman—cousin, I'm thinkin', to Hannibal, wrote to say that there was a feller that looked a heap like Elon Brewster clerkin' in a store there, only he was a heap whiskerer'n older looked than when he left was. As soon as Lawyer Wardner heard about it he went right back to Pete Ackerman an' also to investigate, but he couldn't get much chance to, because a deputy sheriff named Bill Gentry came up to investigate, too, an' Esau got wind of it an' slipped the rope that he'd used to hed killed a man in Mound City—a man with a long, black mustash—who had come up behind him an' got his hood on his shoulder kind o' sudden.

"A Wild Man Livin' in a Cave"

"The nex' time there was any track of Esau was when Ed Gurney came back from the Jonesville lead mines in the ozarks. He claimed that there was a wild man livin' in a cave somewheres in the mountains north of Jonesville, an' was neither more nor less than Esau Brewster.

"Nobody believed him at the time because he was a natural born liar anyway, but it turned out later that it was so. But Esau didn't get tired of wanderin' so no fine evenin' he walked into Judge Wardner's office, gray-haired and stooped over, like a man of seventy.

"He come home to get hung or to get buried, one o' the two," he says, "an' I don't know is to lay my eyes on Perry Wetherell. I reckon I'll be killed after I'm dead, though I thought was him, an' I've lived to keep it a sound an' say at a shudder to I'm worse to the same. Now if Perry Wetherell is to drink my blood, all he's got to do is to send his gun an' put a tin cup in his hand, an' I'll be right there. I'll be a-waitin' for him.'

"Well, sir, sir," says Wardner, 'That ain't no way to talk. This is a law-abidin' community,' he says, 'an' we don't want no shootin' nor cuttin'. The best thing you can do is to lie low an' take keer of them pistols, an' I'll have Perry bound over to keep the peace if he's obstropious.'

"There hain't no peace bond'll hold down them Wetherells,' says Esau. 'I know the breed,' says he, 'an' I reckon I'll keep my handwares an' give myself a chance.'

"'I'll go see Perry,' says Wardner. 'You stay right here till I go see him anyway. He's got a family an' ought to have warnin' 'at you're here whether or no.'

"So he had his hoss saddled right off an' rode off to Perry Wetherell's place, bout five miles out, an' told him that Esau was back an' lookin' for trouble.

"He Must Be Crazy," Says Perry

"Perry pulled his long black mustaches an' studied awhile.

"'He must be crazy,' he says at last. 'Dangerous, too,' he says, his voice trailin' off. 'What's he totin' guns for, me for? I never done nothin' to him.'

"'Don't you remember you swore to drink his blood, time o' Dan's funeral?' says the sheriff.

"'Oh, that?' says Perry. 'Is that it? Why, all drinkers! Why, thunder, I'm only a feller's brother's killed with a stick an' a stone, an' he has to say nothin'. He certainly hadn't ought to hold that up against me.'

"So the upshot o' that was that Esau settled down on the place from an' nothin' more happened to him as far as I know. But I reckon as that Perry Wetherell was powerful uneasy as long as he lived about that."

What Is Your Choice of 'Ten Best Novels'? $25 for the Best Selections

HAVE you joined the thousands of BOSTON AMERICAN readers who are the discussion of which are the ten greatest novels in the AMERICAN'S latest prize contest?

Here is the proposition:

WHICH ARE THE TEN BEST AND GREATEST NOVELS?

The idea is not which are the most amusing, which are the so-called "best sellers," but which ten books convey in the form of an interesting story the greatest amount of useful information, and at the same time provoke in the reader the greatest amount of useful thought.

$25 in Prizes.

Send in your list of the ten greatest novels—the ten that do most to interest, to cheer the lives of those that read them, and at the same time convey useful information, and stir up useful, noble thought.

For the best list the American will give a prize of $10; for the next best a prize of $5, and for the next ten prizes of $1 each. The winning lists will be adjudged by a committee of Boston literary people.

Addressing "Novels" Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Following are some of the most interesting replies received:

Gives His Reasons.

"Best Novels" Editor:

I append a list of novels which I consider most instructive:

"Quilters Travels," Smith (a great satire on humanity).

"Ships that Pass in the Night," Harraden (a powerful tale, simply told).

"John Caldigate," Trollop (an "uplift" character).

"Right of War," Parker (dramatic story of talents untold).

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," Stowe (an appeal for the downtrodden).

"Dombey," Dickens (wonderfully descriptive, intensely dramatic, greatest story of the time of the Napoleons).

"Dr. Jekill and Mr. Hyde," Stevenson (the dual nature of man).

"Ivanhoe," Scott (a dramatic backdrop to the romance of England's mighty warrior King, Richard the Lion Hearted).

"Three Soldiers," Porter (rugged story of rugged men living among rugged hills).

"Best Novels" Editor:

May I submit the following as the novels which have impressed me personally as the best I have read:

Comte de Monte Cristo," Dumas.

"Last Days of Pompeii," Lytton.

"Vanity Fair," Thackeray.

"Lorna Doone," Blackmore.

"David Copperfield," Dickens.

"The Scarlet Letter," Hawthorne.

"The Last of the Mohicans," Cooper.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," Stowe (for preceding the world at large to the cause of our downtrodden brothers).

"Ben Hur," Wallace (for "Christ Stories").

"Ivanhoe," Scott (a dramatic backdrop to the romance of England's mighty warrior King, Richard the Lion Hearted).

"Three Soldiers," Porter (rugged story of rugged men living among rugged hills).

HOTEL MEN ON TOUR INSPECT A NEW HOUSE

CHICAGO, April 9.—A special train of seven cars, carrying seventy hotel owners from the New England States, arrived over the Wabash Railroad en route to the convention of hotel proprietors at Los Angeles, on Tuesday.

Truly Drake, president of the new Hotel Blackstone, entertained the visitors at his hostelry, until the special left over the Santa Fe. Members of the party, on their arrival at the depot, were taken to the hotel in time for a light luncheon at 5:30 p. m. The Easterners, wishing to make the tour one of business as well as of pleasure, had previously expressed a desire to inspect certain original features of the Blackstone, and immediately after the repast Mr. Drake took charge of a tour of inspection.

The kitchen, modern in every detail, drew the most comment from the guests. Seventy-four chefs were at work under Head Chef G. Becker, who is himself a well-known figure on the New England circuit, having served as chief of the Hotel Touraine, Boston, for eighteen years. The chef led the way with much pride through the special department, explaining how the ice cream containers with their several flavors, showed how the meat oven is insulated with ground linoleum, the plate-cooling ones with their cork-lined drainage, and passed on to the row of vegetable refrigerators with the giant ice making one.

Valuable Tea Service Shown.

Explaining that the tea service was a hobby of Mr. Drake's, the chef brought out ninety pieces of silver, each valued at $50, in which the beverage will be served. The service of dumb waiters, by which 1,000 patrons may be served at one time, was the final display of the kitchen.

J. Talbot Dunning, manager of the Hotel Thorndike, Boston, compared the general design of the new building to that of the costly Plaza Hotel recently erected in New York City.

"We have heard many wonderful things of the Blackstone Hotel," said Mr. Dunning, "and I can say that the building comes up to every description of it. I am especially interested in the arrangement of the private dining rooms, which are so conveniently placed by outside elevators, thus doing away with much of the after-theatre annoyance to the hotel proper. The main cafe is very striking with its furnishings of Italian marble and the arrangements of reflecting mirrors in the grand hall room seems very satisfactory. I would say that the interior decorations of precious woods is very similar to that of the Plaza Hotel and fully as beautiful."

Members of Party.

Frederick Finney of the Waldorf-Astoria was the only New Yorker present, as that city sent a delegation by way of St. Louis. The other members of the party were:

Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Hart, Boston.
Mrs. L. E. M. Porter, Boston.
Oliver J. Pelton, Concord, N. H.
Harry E. Pelton, Concord, N. H.
James H. Bowker, Meriden, Conn.

Good Things to Eat

Fresh eggs are coming into the Boston markets at a lively rate at present, but the low prices are not quoting them by the car load and putting them in the "cooler." They serve a double purpose of keeping the price up for those on hand and insuring a larger margin of profit for the dealers who are not so plentiful in the rural districts. Strictly fresh eggs are selling in local market for 30 and 32 cents a dozen. In the country towns twenty-five cents is the top figure, and many eggs are selling for 25 cents a dozen at retail.

Not much butter is coming into the market just now and the price ranges from at 25 and 28 cents for fresh Northern butter at retail. That the price is not excessive is shown by the fact that fresh butter is selling at wholesale in Chicago for 31 cents.

Pork is slightly cheaper than last week, the price having dropped about one cent a pound on all kinds of pork products.

A larger quantity of maple sugar is coming into the Boston markets this spring than has been the case for a number of years. The price has dropped from 15 cents a pound since the first shipments were received in Boston. The retail price now selling pure sugar for 12 and 14 cents a pound.

There has been a little steadying of the potato market since the beginning of this week, but the price broke so low that potatoes sold as low as 50 cents a bushel to country consumers. The outside price now is about 40 cents a bushel, which is still 20 cents lower than they were sold for six weeks ago.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

LOCAL STOCKS RALLY AT END

After opening weak both the New York and Boston markets were put under pressure by vigorous selling, which resulted in losses throughout the list of from fractions to over a point. But after the first hour a much firmer tone developed, and on good buying prices advanced quickly, in some cases showing a gain for the day. The selling which occurred during the early trading was the result of apprehension over the Attorney-General's attitude toward the trusts and the manner in which some of the morning papers viewed the crop report. As most of these questions are already discounted, good support was rendered by investment buying after stop loss orders had been caught.

Reserves	313,421,700	9,794,200
Reserve required	306,490,750	5,625,050
Surplus	6,921,950	4,167,250

*Includes $1,565,200 United States deposits, as compared with $1,510,200 in the previous week. The percentage of reserve held by the banks is 25.35 against 25.66 last week.

†Includes $1,242,900 against 816,-625,775 last year and $1,214,450 two years ago.

There is no liquidation of consequence in sight, but this is not an indication that there is none in contemplation. Bearish operations in the market are founded upon the belief that a few issues at prices will bring out some weak holdings.

As this is a market of professionalism and expectation, the subtlety of the operations in it are of the scalping order. Comparatively large lots are bought and sold with fractional profits and losses and those concerned get in and out as rapidly as possible. There is small sense of security on either side of the fence at the moment

The security world has had its back against the wall for some weeks and is almost sore proof. The rumors in circulation were enough to break a weaker market 10 points; less terrifying reports have broken it that much many a time.

Intrinsic value is not considered in any stock just now. A general opinion prevails in Stake street that some serious blow is about to be dealt at business interests by the politicians. The most important financial interests of the street believe that, whatever shape it may take, this is a bad desperate effort to save the Republican majority, but even they believe some such blow is coming. They state that they are ready for the shock and do not believe prices will suffer materially.

Less of Winter wheat is not a serious thing for any one except the farmers. The abandoned wheat fields will be ploughed and will raise a crop of corn, potatoes or other produce that will mean fully as much to the general wealth of the nation as the wheat would have meant. It does mean, however, high prices when for an other year, and, since Congress says it is wrong to speculate in cotton futures but all right to trade in grain futures, the public must expect to see the loaf of bread cost as a foothold by the combined talent of the grain and cotton markets.

Another denial came out of the Great Northern offices that a new bond issue was being considered. It is admitted that the company will have to do some new financing this year to cover cost of construction of the Northwest. They say that the Great Northern, the proudest of all the railroads, is actually going to sell some short term notes? That would be a blow indeed.

The Northern Pacific, which is James J. Hill's other railroad child, shows an increase of operating expenses for February that is about double the increase in gross earnings. The St. Paul also shows a very large increase in expenses for February, as compared with the increase in gross earnings.

The railroads in the Northwest are really pioneers in a new world. The resources of the country are so vast that the railroads must lessen many millions more of stocks and bonds to provide transportation for the tremendous business growing up. Instead of reading publication of the facts in this connection, as the management of those railroads seem to do, they should glory in the fact that they have such a vast domain for future development, and the public should be prepared for forthcoming bond issues by plain statements of fact.

The artificial character of the buying in St. Paul on Thursday was evidenced when the stock declined to 140. It rallied about 2 points and has lost half of this. The February net earnings were much better than those of the Northern Pacific, but the $4,000,000 increase in expenses in eight months leaves the road with $2,000,000 less net earnings than last year.

It is reported on good authority that there is an attempt to reach and dislodge the bull element in Reading, to be protected by a certain account in Southern Pacific. The long account in Southern Pacific is of fair size. The stock is declined for much better prices later, but no one is able to predict just when the boom is to be brought about.

SIX HURT IN CRASH OF TROLLEY CARS

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Six persons were injured, two seriously, when an Angora car crashed into a Tasker street car on North Twenty-third street early to-day. The Angora car cut ten feet of the front of the second car clear off, and the motorman and a passenger in the latter were so severely injured that they were rushed to a hospital. Four other passengers were taken home in cabs.

Shea of Cambridge.

MURRAY'S
CURED ULCERATED THROAT IN 24 HOURS

San Francisco, March 9, 1910.

The Murray Chemical Co.,
Gentlemen:

My sixteen-year old Son, Eugene had an ulcerated sore throat for ten days which greatly frightened us. We tried peroxide and four other supposed "cures" which did not help him.

A friend who had used Murray's Lotion told me about it, and I bought a bottle. Eugene used it as a gargle, and in three hours his throat was almost clear. In 24 hours he was practically well.

Thankfully Yours,

BUSINESS HURT, DOUGLAS SAYS, BY MEDDLING

BROCKTON, April 9—Improper tariff revision and dissatisfaction with the Taft administration are blamed by ex-Governor Douglas, who has lost Florida, for the industrial inactivity and unrest reported in many parts of the country.

"The election of Congressman Foss in this Republican district, said Mr. Douglas, "was a great surprise to many people, but it is a part of the unrest and dissatisfaction apparent everywhere and the fault of the tariff revision and the high cost of living. Business in general throughout the country is in a state of unrest; there is no the confidence there should be in the administration.

"The Government is meddling too much with the business of the people. The new tariff is far from satisfactory, and there are other conditions that touch the people, giving them less confidence than we could wish.

"Many business interests are waiting for the decision to be rendered on the steel and tobacco trusts. If folks decide who's made is not too strongly in favor of the investments are held inactively, as much better feeling in the business world. If the decision is against people in crests and through them against the manufacturers and of the country we are likely to see business conditions throughout the country in much worse shape.

"There is but one remedy for this. The same conditions are found in Wall street, the pulse of the nation. If folks decline of bonds and stocks have fallen off several points and there is a general inactivity, it is but an indication of the general business situation."

"The Baby's Little Thumb Turns Out---Strong Man" "If the Baby's Little Thumb Turns In---Weak Man"

Study THESE TWO THUMBS, and Get, Perhaps, a Surprise.

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

You've seen anxious mothers and fathers watch a blinking, flabby, crooked-legged, pink-faced, bald-headed, new-born baby when he shuts his little fist.

When you shut your fist you shut it with the thumb outside of the fingers, or with the thumb inside of the fingers. The old nurse's theory—and there may be something in it—is this:

The baby destined to be a great and strong man shuts his fist with the thumb OUTSIDE. The baby destined to be a weak man shuts his fist with the thumb INSIDE.

Here are two shut fists:

You notice that one fist has the thumb IN, and doesn't look so very strong; whereas the other one has the thumb OUT, and appears to be a very strong fist, indeed.

We feel bound to say that in choosing between these two fists, if you wanted one of them to defend you, you would probably select the fist with the thumb turned OUT.

Experienced trainers of prize fighters always like to see a thumb turned out, because if you turn your thumb in and hit a hard blow you are very apt to break the thumb.

Of these two fists, as you may or may not be surprised to learn, the thumb turned IN is the fist of Theodore Roosevelt.

Here you see the picture from which the fist is taken. It shows Mr. Roosevelt energetically and strenuously telling of the terrible things that he IS GOING TO DO to the Octopus and others.

The other fist, that looks stronger and that turns OUT the thumb, is the fist of William H. Taft.

And here is a photograph of President Taft from which that fist was clipped.

There are some wild and ardent admirers of Mr. Roosevelt, and some superficial critics of Mr. Taft, who perhaps will say that this shows there is nothing in nursery tales and nothing in the theory about the weak man turning his thumb in.

Others, at least as well informed, will very likely take a totally different view. They will have sense enough to realize that, after all, the stronger man may be Taft, who works pretty hard without saying a great deal, rather than the very entertaining and strenuous Mr. Roosevelt, who SAID a great deal without DOING very much.

Anyhow, the photographs are interesting.

"ROOSEVELT EMERGING FROM THE JUNGLE," a fine colored photogravure, ready to frame, worthy of a place in any home, will be given FREE with every copy of to-morrow's Boston Sunday American.

TUT TUT, MY BOY— YOU SHOULD HAVE SEEN ME AT SANTIAGO!
THE GENERAL SHOUTED "WHO'LL SAVE OUR FLAG!" "I WILL!" I CRIED!
I JUMPED INTO THE THICKEST OF THE FIGHT—
SNATCHED OUR NOBLE FLAG FROM THE ENEMY LIKE THIS—AND UNFURLED IT TO THE BREEZE!
HELP! SAVE ME!

Putting Niagara in the Also Rans

A CHANCE FOR NEW ENGLAND "BOOSTERS"

By MERTON E. BURKE

CHERE'S no nest of fortunes lying around Niagara Falls. What's that? Went there on your honeymoon? Well, a good many New Englanders—not all honeymooners, either—go to Niagara each year.

They stand spellbound as they observe the terrific force with which that mass of water plunges over the wide, sweeping Horseshoe Cliffs, and are appalled by the thunderous roar of its enormous torrent.

After Niagara New England's streams seem trivial.

Yet, right here in Massachusetts alone, more water power goes to waste than is generated by mighty Niagara Falls.

Startling? No doubt. It comes pretty near putting Niagara in the also rans.

Conclusive proof, is it not, that New England needs, more than anything else, a little "boosting" to arouse self-appreciation?

It is a fact that not a mill wheel in New England turns to-day with fifteen horsepower but might turn with thirty, under proper management.

The Blackstone River, Rhode Island's great mill stream, is known far and wide as the busiest river in America, yet over half this river's power goes to waste.

It is only forty-five miles long, yet the value of the river in water power, figured on a coal basis, is $25,000,000. Over 100 mills line its banks, most of them so large and requiring so much power that they use water only to supplement steam.

In the ordinary work-day, about half of the river's power is used. On holidays and Sundays, and in the night, the river's whole power goes to waste. At the time of the spring freshets many times the river's yearly product in potential energy goes over the spillways without vexing a wheel.

Plans are now under way to build additional reservoirs on the Blackstone tributaries, to hold the floods in check. Two dams now being planned, which will restrain but a small portion of the total flood, when in commission will add 11,5 horsepower in one case and eleven horsepower in the other to every water-wheel that has a fifteen-foot drop available.

Within the past year or two the "moneyed interests," which is the vague term we use for the vast combinations of money and brains which have monopolized our modern raw materials during the past ten or twenty years, have learned that to own all the water power of the future is to have a bonanza, compared with which oil, coal and iron fade into insignificance.

To prevent one combination from gobbling the water rights of the Rocky Mountains, President Roosevelt set aside immense public reserves at vantage points by mountain streams and falls. To save other water power privileges for the people of this country—and incidentally a big coal deposit—Mr. Pinchot precipitated the cabinet fracas which resulted in his removal by President Taft.

Throughout the length and breath of the country water rights have been grabbed by the mighty combinations of capital.

Electricity has made a water power right, however small, about the best property a man can hold.

Even the smallest, hardest worked streams that seem filled with mill privileges have golden nuggets of opportunities for those who will establish electric generating plants and avail themselves of the wasted power, and sell light and power over their wire delivery routes, just as the grocer sells his wares.

Just north of the Massachusetts line, on the Connecticut, the gates were but recently closed on a great dam, that holds up the entire river, and sends power spinning along the wires to cities scores of miles away.

Steam is an expensive energy, and with the constantly advancing price of coal, is becoming more and more costly. The great manufacturer has been anxiously speculating as to what will become of him if the cost of power increases. Scientists have taxed their brains for years to discover some new sources of power. But it appears that when the fuel supply is gone, the falling waters of our streams must be depended upon to move the wheels of industry.

It is not improbable that the future will see each small New England river managed co-operatively by the mill and power right owners, and its waters conserved from the start for the benefit of all mill sites and riparian owners.

We have much to the effect that the days of development of New England's natural resources are over. It would seem to be otherwise.

Fortunes are yet to be made, but whether these fortunes are to be by New England people or New York financiers depends largely upon the people of New England.

New England rivers, which so far excel Niagara in power, are worth "boosting" anyway.

And by the way, Are YOU a "Booster?"

Little Bobbie

He Writes About Pa and Mr. Roosevelt

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

ROOSEVELT is on the way hoom, sed Pa, & sooner or later I am going for to have the pleshur of grasping his hand, the mitey hand that pulled the trigger that sent the bullet that killed the lion that them sterling coon helpers chased into a corner.

It has been a hard voyage for Teddy, sed Pa. He has crep slowly from jungel to jungel, he has had his flesh tore by thorns, he has been chased from tree to tree by them awful rhinos & them demon dig-dig, & do you think he ever dog-dogged wen chased by a dig-dog. A brave man, that, & a grate visitor.

It seems to me, sed Ma, that he duns too much red fire. Why doesnt he cum back to Oyster Bay kind of quiet like, the way you dunn cum hoom bill from town?

Well, sed Pa, you must reemember that he is a world character, now that he has been all around the world. You must bear in mind that a man like Roosevelt is a good deal like Jeffries, it is hard for him to keep out of the limelight, unless he goes into the mountaings & stays there. All of his old friends is on his trail when he is resy to reach, and a lot that nevver saw him trails along. I suppose this wud be a fair story of a day in Rome: Rose at 6 a. m. Took a bully shower. Ate 18 a bully steak at seven. Visited the seven 57 hills at nine, & climbed every hill. Saw the bridge that Horashus held befour my time. It is a bully bridge. Any liter like Horashus or myself cud have held it. Saw the old arena wall that Romulus & Remus & bill wen they founded Rome. I think it was Remus that jumped over it. No jump to speek of, I could cleer it on my hunter. Visited Nero's palace in the afternoon & had a long talk with Quo Vadis & Nux Vomica. Had a bully day.

There are lots of Rusevelts in this world, sed Ma. They are not all grate men, but they have his habits, like wanting there names in wood tipe & gitting them there, too. Now, sed Ma, talk you, for instons. You & Mister Rusevelt are alike in many respeks. He has large, grin teeth, so have you. He is a Colonel, you are a kernel. He is a grate shot, mosst of the time you are sum shot yureself. He likes to talk, & you hate to keep still.

Yes, sed Pa, Theodore & I are true Americans. Nothing but lack of opportunity has kep me from the top of the ladder. We have much that is in common, excep that he has moar than me & wait till he reeches this country. I guess there won't be a grand crowd down at the pier to see him. Watch me go out then the best & mitt him, sed Pa. It will be a sight long to be remembered, to see two real American citizens clasping hands in warm welcome. I can hear the thunder of applause now, sed Pa, & the day he sets foot on these shoars I want you & littel Bobbie to be sure & be there to see how friendly Theodore will be with me. Why, sed Pa, there isent a thing in the world that the Colonel wuddent do for me.

Then I went to bed and had a dreem. I dreemed that Ma & me went down to the pier with Pa. & I dreemed that Pa went up to the edge jest wen Mister Rusevelt was gitting off the ship. I thought in my dreem that Pa went up with his hand out, & that a Secret servis man tipped him off into the river. I dreemed that he was drowning, & that I jumped in to save him. Then I woak up, & was glad it was all a dreem.
